Slaney Celebrates 40th Birthday in August

by JERRY WOJCIK

Mary Slaney will qualify for masters status when she celebrates her 40th birthday on Aug. 4. When discussing the talents and impact of athletes, journalists often include a qualifier ("thought to be the greatest...," "perhaps the best...," "arguably the most..."), but Slaney is considered, in the words of her present coach, Bill Dellinger, of Eugene, Ore., where she lives and trains, "the most talented woman runner we've ever had."

Unlike some predecessors, who approached the masters ranks with forecasts of records, Slaney, so far, has not predicted masters records for herself. Instead, she has set her sights on concluding her career by making the Olympic Trials for the Sydney Games in 2000, which would be her

by JIM OAKS

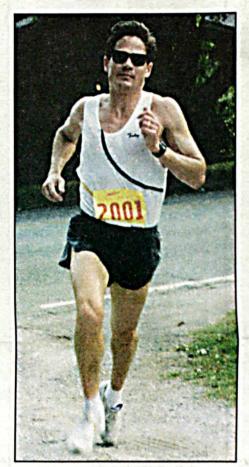

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. – For the first time in three years, the top male master seed on the start line of the WZYP Cotton Row Run 10K, May 25, was not a foreign athlete.

After wins by Valery Svetogor of Russia in 1997 and Antoni Niemczak of Poland in 1996, it was South Carolina resident Thomas Mather's time to see if he could bring the number 2001 home in first place.

On the other hand, the top females looked much the same as 1997. While none of last year's top four males returned for the 19th running of this annual Memorial Day race, all four of the top women were back, led by 43-year-old Tatiana Pozdniakova of the Ukraine. She was joined by 1997 runner-up, Judith Hine, of New Zealand, Joyce Deason, Shreveport, La., and Victoria Crisp, Nashville, Tenn.

In the opening mile, the race took shape in a line-up that would continue to the finish when the 40-year-old Mather took the masters lead, with Pozdniakova well in control of the women's masters competition.

Mather's closest pursuer was Lanny Doan, Virginia Beach, Va., but he Continued on page 7

Masters Star at Freihofer's Run

by JAMES O'BRIEN

In 1997 the masters race at the Freihofer's Run for Women in downtown Albany, N.Y., was the hottest 5K race of the year. California's Ruth Wysocki went head-to-head with Jane Welzel, Regina Joyce, and Joan Samuelson, and came away with not only a spectacular win, but an even more spectacular world best of 16:06.

Wysocki, a 1984 Olympian, was the state-of-the-art in women's over-40 distance competition in 1997, and the world of over-40 distance competition was her oyster.

Although Wysocki dominated throughout the remainder of 1997, she fell into ominous silence through the winter months and did not appear in the spring of 1998 to dominate races such as the Carlsbad 5000, those in which

JERRY WOJCIK

Anne Jennings, 31, Massachusetts, cleared 5-7 3/4 in the 1997 National Masters Championships – San Jose. The 1998 Championships, Orono, Me., are expected to attract a strong field of high jumpers from all over the U.S., and particularly from the East Coast.

McDaniels Breaks World Records in S.E. Meet

by PAUL HRONJAK

For the 28th consecutive year, the Southeastern U.S. Masters Meet was held in Raleigh, N.C., on May 8-10. This year, 293 competitors entered from 24 states and Canada, and set two world, five U.S., and 44 meet records.

Leonore McDaniels, 70, Virginia Beach, Va., continued her assault on the record books with two world and two U.S. pending records. She upped the W70-74 world records in the high jump from 3-9³/4 to 4-0 and the pole vault from 5-4 to 6-6³/4. The high jump mark is an age-graded 96.8%. Her national records came in the long jump with an 11-9³/4 and the triple jump with a 23-1³/4. Katherine Gradick, 80, Marathon, Fla., broke the W80-84 U.S. javelin record of 40-5³/4 with a 41-0.

Multiple meet records went to Margaret Hagerty, W75, Edith Gray, W60, Joseph Martin, M75, Diane Friedman, W75, Leonard Olson, M65, Evelyn Wright, W60, Bruce Hedendal, M50, and Tom Kennell, M75.

At the much anticipated awards banquet, special awards went to Dr. Bill Busby (the Ed Barron Award) for outstanding contributions to masters track & field; Audrey Lary, 63, (Phil Raschker Award) for best female agegraded performance in the sprints, an 81.0% 16.40 in the 100; James Stookey, 68, (Ervin T. Mitchell Award) for best A-G performances of 91.0% 13.48 in the 100 and 89.8% 27.82 in the 200; Leonard Olson, 66, (Nolan Fowler Award) for best A-G performance in the hammer, 71.9% 126-8; and Evelyn Wright, 61, (Bernice Holland Award) for best female A-G performance in the throws.

sixth Olympic appearance.

She is still striving for her first medal. Her infamous fall in 1984 cost her an almost certain gold. The U.S. boycott in 1980 and illness in 1992 erased her chances, and she was not at full strength in 1988 and 1996.

In the Eugene Register-Guard, May 28, she is quoted with this admission, "If I'd had more success in the Olympics prior to now, I probably wouldn't have the same determination I do. My dream is to go to the Trials feeling good and strong, make the team and progress from there until I feel at my best at just the right time."

Dellinger says that it would be difficult for Slaney to duplicate her past performances in the 800 and 1500, but that she hasn't approached her potential in the 5000 and 10,000.

On a cold, rainy evening on May 15, Slaney ran the 5000 in 15:27.19 in the Oregon Twilight Meet at Hayward Field in Eugene. In the nationally televised Prefontaine Classic at Hayward on May 31, Slaney ran alone, after the rabbit dropped out early, for virtually an entire 5000 with a 100m lead in 15:23.72 under sunny but breezy conditions.

The W40 world records for the 5000 and 10,000 are 15:51.7 and 32:12.07 by Nicole Leveque of France in 1994. The U.S. records are 16:57.4 and 35:33.6, both held by Judy Fox and set 27 years ago in 1981.

The masters national records are certainly within Slaney's grasp, as is the world 5000 mark. The world 10,000 record is not a soft one, but if Dellinger's evaluation of Slaney's potential is accurate, and her spirit and health endure, she may elevate masters running to a level not seen before in the U.S. and the world.

Happy Birthday, Mary.

MASTERS GAMES

Although brochures sent by the Masters Games indicated that WAVA has endorsed them, the December 1997 article by WAVA President, Torsten Carlius, only indicated that "Our relations with IMGA have improved essentially over the last few years, but we are still not at a point where the WAVA rules and procedures are respected completely by IMGA and organizers of the World Masters Games." I don't consider this an endorsement. Rather, WAVA has taken no official position.

In addition, the mailing list of participants in the 1989 WAVA Championships in Eugene had been used without WAVA's permission to solicit participation in the Masters Games. These actions by the Masters Games are cause for concern.

I believe there will eventually be some kind of World Senior Olympic, multi-sport event. If that occurs, then questions arise as to what part WAVA will play. Will WAVA be able to determine the entry fees? WAVA has no input and took no position regarding the $200 entry fee being charged for the Masters Games. What will happen to the WAVA Championships? Will they be superseded by the Masters Games?

These are matters to be taken up at the USATF National Convention and the WAVA General Assembly Meeting. It is important that the participants in the program make their views known.

I, for one, would want written guarantees from the Masters Games that:

1. WAVA would be totally in charge of any athletic meeting at the Masters

Games.

- 2. WAVA would determine the entry
- WAVA would receive some recompense for services rendered.
- 4. WAVA would have direct input in the operation of the Masters Games.
- 5. The Masters Games will never be held in odd-numbered years.
- WAVA would continue to host the WAVA World and Regional Championships.

RUST'S "GRASS ROOTS"

Roland Rust's elitist "Grass Roots Viewpoint" of the USATF Masters T&F Championships (NMN, Feb.) is full of weeds. His contention that no one wants to compete at a national level that is not important and for... medals that mean nothing, is absurd. Just by its existence, a national meet is of value to its competitors.

Master athletes come to meets to perform to the best of their ability, not necessarily to win. A medal is earned by one's own individual effort; it should not be measured by group standards of excellence. An athlete cannot control the number of contenders who show up, so the quality of performance should not devalue a medal.

Masters athletes have families, careers, and other commitments. Training is not a full-time job, nor are we financed and pampered with scholarship perks. The fire that sparks a teenage or collegiate runner to excel, also lights the desire of older athletes.

There is room for athletes aged 30-

39 in masters competition. It's a premasters training ground, a place to hone skills that aren't quite elite but have some national qualities for rankings. Since competition sub-divides all age groups, the level of performance remains balanced – whether better or worse than their elders.

Meets often run long because of administrative flaws, not the number of events in the schedule. Our local running club offered a 5000 in our February indoor meet and received such a huge response that two heats were created. The 10,000 remains a staple in the summer Empire State Games because not everyone is a sprinter. The steeplechase is still a crowd-pleaser, especially when seniors are circling the track.

Applying qualifying standards to national meets will only reduce the entries. Let's not pretend that masters meets entertain the rich tradition or reverence that allows the Boston Marathon to limit its field of runners. Would anyone dare to impose standards on road race national championships? I think not.

Sue O'Malley Montour Falls, New York

NATIONALS SCHEDULE

Recently I had a conversation with Jeff Schaller about events scheduling at the Nationals. I had planned to run the 800 and 400, but have since changed my mind. Here is what my schedule would be if all the races are run: Thurs: AM, 800 trial or semi-final, PM, 400 trial, 800 semi-final; Fri., PM, 400 semi-final, 400 final; Sat., 800 final.

I thought this schedule was pretty unrealistic, given the level of competition in my age group (60-64). I suggested to Schaller that a solution would be to establish a minimum qualifying time so that there won't have to be so many races. He said that the (scheduling?) committee had talked about it and decided it smacked of "elitism."

The trouble with that is we would have to call all of the high school, college, and open level athletes "elitists," since they all have to qualify by times prior to their biggest meets.

What do you think? Let's have some sharing of ideas. I would like to see if others think we are on the "right track," pun intended.

Charles Kirkby Escondido, California

BONE STUDY AT NATIONALS

I am coordinating a research study on women masters t&f athletes. Little to nothing is known about how the various events affect the bone mineral density of participants. We have approval from the Nationals' meet director and our IRB to determine the bone density of participant volunteers by ultrasound of the heel bone.

The procedure is very new, simple, and involves about 5 minutes per person. We will also ask the volunteers to fill out some questionnaires. We are interested in answering the following questions with our research:

- Do women 40-and-over who participate in t&f have greater bone mineral density (BMD) than non-athletes?
- 2. Do participants in some events have a greater BMD than participants in other events?
- 3. Do post-menopausal women athletes who use hormone replacement therapy (HRT) have greater BMD than non-HRT users?
- 4. Is there a correlation between BMD and performance?
- 5. Is there a correlation between HRT and performance?
- HRT and performance?
 6. Do older women who participate in t&f have a history of fewer fractures than similar, non-athletic women?

To ensure that the research is scientifically accepted, we need to attract all possible volunteers at the Orono meet. We anticipate that our study will be conducted in a trade tent in the infield of the track. Perhaps we can show that masters track and field is a bone protector for women.

I work for Clifford Rosen, MD, an internationally known osteoporosis researcher at the Maine Center of Osteoporosis Research and Education, f you think you have too many fast-twitch muscle fibers to be a distance runner or perhaps too many slow-twitch fibers to be a good sprinter, then consider the success of Canadian Diane Palmason. She has excelled at everything from 75 yards to 80 kilometers. On May 3, Palmason, who represented Canada in the 1954 Commonwealth Games in the 220, celebrated her graduation to the 60-64 age division by running the Vancouver Marathon in 3 hours, 16 minutes, 26 seconds, just missing Helen Klein's record of 3:15:30, set in Chicago in 1984.

Diane Palmason: A Fast-Twitch Marathoner

"I was really quite pleased with myself, even though I missed the world record by 56 seconds," says Diane, who crossed the threshold into her new division on March 15. "I did the best I could do on that day, but there were a number of circumstances that I know slowed me down a bit – warm weather, smog, a convoluted course, and bad congestion at the start, to name some of them. So I now have the confidence that I can run quite a bit faster with the right conditions."

Diane adds that she intends to run another marathon some time this fall, "and then I'll go back to the 800." In the 1995 World Veterans Championships in Buffalo, she captured the W55 800 in 2:32.17, a North American record, and the 1500 in 5:14.86, a Canadian record. She also took a bronze in the 400 with a 1:06.90. She considers that meet the highlight of her long running career and especially remembers the 800, in which she managed to beat Gerda Van Kootin of The Netherlands, the world recordholder. "But the 1500 was even more competitive and strategic," she recalls.

A Long Career

At present Diane is a resident of Englewood, Colo., but she has plans to move with husband Ernie Black to northwest Washington, in the shadow of Mt. Baker. Diane's competitive running career goes back to 1951, when she won the Quebec provincial championships at 75 and 100 yards.

In 1954 she represented Canada in the Commonwealth Games in Vancouver, racing the "220." Those games are most often recalled for the famous "Mile of the Century" duel between Roger Bannister of England and John Landy of Australia, the only men at that time to have gone under four minutes.

It was the excitement of that race, Diane says, that made her want to become a miler. But women were not even allowed to run the "quarter" in those days, much less the mile. When she went on to Queen's University in 1955, and found that they had no track or cross-country program for women, that was the end of her racing career for two decades.

After spending the better part of those 20 years "running after my four kids," Diane got back into the sport in 1975 after undergoing back surgery. "I was inspired by a report on the first (1975) National Capital Marathon in Ottawa that May, including a story on the first woman," she explains. Seven months after the surgery and just three months after she started training, Diane, then 37, ran a 6:02 for 1500 meters. In the spring of 1976, after a winter of taking up cross-country skiing, she participated in her first road race at any distance, the National Capital Marathon, and finished with a 3:54.

Adjusting to the Road

It took a few years for Diane to fully adapt her body to road racing, as most of her personal bests on the road, including a 36:28 in the Bonne Bell 10K (first overall) and a 2:46:21 in the Twin Cities Marathon (first master) were recorded in 1984 at age 46. In 1982, she was the first woman in the Brome Lake 80K event, clocking 7:31:55.

Diane took six months off from racing beginning in April '97 in order to prepare for her entrance into the 60plus arena. "I didn't stop running completely," she explains.

"I ran maybe five days a week, but just as I felt. I had no training plan, no goal except to get rested and refreshed. There were no long runs, no speed work. After our running camp in Whistler in late July I did begin increasing the volume with the idea of running a couple of trial marathons in the fall, mainly just to see where I was before starting to train for my first 60plus race. I ran the Niagara Marathon in late October in 3:32, then the Seattle Marathon in late November in 3:25. That told me I had a lot of work to do to try to get anywhere near Helen Klein's record."

A Change in Training

In late January, Diane consulted physiologist Owen Anderson about her training regimen. He concluded that she didn't need many longer runs or higher mileage as she already had good endurance, and so he recommended workouts at what he estimated should be her lactate threshold (LT), along with strength workouts, and increasingly longer runs at her marathon goal pace of 7:26 per mile.

"The difficulty here was that my LT was based on a recent 10K time at sea level, and I found it harder maintaining that pace at our 6000-foot altitude than many of the people I coach," Diane continues.

"So there were track workouts of repeat miles at faster than goal pace, all of which felt very hard to me. Because I found the LT and pace workouts so tiring, even though my total weekly mileage was only 35 to 42 miles (she had averaged 50 in the past), I ended up feeling unable to run at a decent pace on my easy recovery run days. So I took to walking briskly instead, and ended up walking on at least one day and sometimes two days each week, along with my rest day – every Friday totally off. This lowered my running mileage even further."

As a result, Diane started the Vancouver Marathon with little confidence that she could hold her goal pace, but was willing to give it her best. So she was pleasantly surprised at what it turned out to be.

Race Variety

In addition to going for the 60-over marathon record, Diane would also like to run the Fifth Avenue Mile in New York City in September, and then go to some indoor track meets next winter.

"I will definitely continue to shift my focus from the middle to the long distances and back, as I love racing and I enjoy the variety this brings to my training," she comments. "But right now my goals are a little fuzzy due to the uncertainty as to when we'll move. I know better than to even think of attempting quality training while coordinating a move. One stress at a time."

Diane – who coaches adult runners of all abilities, and directs the Women's Running Camps in the British Columbia and Colorado mountains with her partner, Maureen Custy-Roben – is also pursuing the concept of establishing communications among post-menopausal women who enjoy training and racing on the road and track.

"I think we have much to share with each other, not to mention the encouragement and inspiration we can draw from each other," she explains. "The first step is a newsletter, and I would be delighted to hear from women who like the idea and would like to help me with it."

WZYP Cotton Row 10K

never mounted a serious challenge to the ophthalmologist from Mt. Pleasant, S.C. Mather won in 33:30, with Doan second in 33:55. There was a little more than a minute gap back to the third master, John Taylor, Jr. (35:03), of Atlanta. David Mathews, Alpharetta, Ga., was fourth in 36:46, and 48-year-old Steve Rice, Huntsville, Ala., took fifth in 36:54.

"This was one of my slowest times in five years," Mather said. "It was pretty hot and humid, but there was a great crowd. It's a great event and a lot of people turn out. It was fun."

Mather, who ran for Indiana University as an undergraduate, has been one of the Southeast's top masters since turning 40 last October. He won the Vulcan 10K in Birmingham, Ala., last November in 31:55, set a South Carolina masters record of 1:10:22 for the half-marathon in December, and won the challenging Reedy River 10K in Greenville, S.C., in March in a course record 32:06. He received $500 for the Cotton Row win, with $400-$100 going to the other top five.

Pozdniakova did not seem to be bothered by the fact that two days prior to this race she had won the masters title and finished third overall in a 20K in Wheeling, W.V. However, the hot and humid weather on race day did not make an attempt at Nancy Grayson's masters record of 35:34 practical. Instead, Pozdniakova ran a controlled 36:05 for the win.

"This year the hill (Mountainwood) did not seem as steep as last year," Pozdniakova said. "I enjoyed the race even though it was hot."

In 1997, Pozdniakova had entered the race confident of breaking the masters course record. However, she did not run the course prior to the race. She was stunned when she encountered the steep climb on Mountainwood just prior to the three-mile mark.

"I couldn't believe it (the hill) when I ran the race last year," she said. "This year I knew what to expect and it did not seem so bad."

After the first mile, Pozdniakova did not try to race with female winner (34:37) Breeda Dennehy, but outran 31-year-old Laura White (36:14) for second overall. That gave Pozdniakova an extra $400 to add to the $400 she received for the masters win.

Crisp was second master ($400) in 37:58. The 45-year-old veterinarian, a regular participant in this race, ran her best time ever on the course. She had run 36:58 three weeks earlier at the Gum Tree 10K in Tupelo, Miss.

"I've been running more mileage this year," she said. "I'm in the high 50s and I was doing about 40 a week. My endurance is a lot better."

Lesley Chaplin, Atlanta, took third ($300) in 38:40, edging Alice Smoot (38:42), Marietta, Ga. Deason was fifth ($100) in 41:27.

Pozdniakova's husband, Alex, and their 11-year-old son, Eugene, who placed eighth in the companion two-mile race, accompanied her. She said they would be going back to Ukraine in June since they are allowed to stay in the U.S. only five months each visit. She made the most of the last week of May, traveling from Huntsville to Virginia in time to run a 10-miler the next weekend in Arlington where she finished third overall in 58:54. That made three hard races in nine days.

This year, 16 runners who finished the first Cotton Row 10K in 1980, continued their string of running all the races. All are now masters, with Charles Van Valkenburgh and Don Hillis the youngest at age 41. This year 47-year-old James Carroll, Burns, Tenn., had the fastest time of the group with a 43:16. Betty Byrne is the lone female among the 16, and 62-year-old Moody Davis is the oldest.

Some outstanding age group wins at Cotton Row included Carl Nicholson (50-54), of Huntsville, in 38:47; Malcolm Gillis (65-69), Toney, Ala., in 41:58; Joe Conrad (70+), Gainesville, Fla., in 56:48; Susie Kluttz (60-64), Winston-Salem, N.C., in 48:51; and Joann Long (65+) of Huntsville, in 58:50.

The number of 10K finishers (1517) was down slightly from 1541 last year. However, the percentage of masters in the race increased from 45% to 47%. Among the 720 over-40 runners who ran, 149 were women, about 20%. The two-mile race drew another 700 runners, with most of these youngsters.

One of the race's more humorous incidents was related to the two-mile run and involved a Huntsville father and daughter who got more than they bargained for.

On the morning of the race, first-time participants Landon McCrary, 45, and his 12-year-old daughter, Katie, registered for the two-mile. The two-mile, with a 9:30 start time, follows the 10K race. But when the 10K runners began to assemble at the starting line shortly before 8 a.m., the McCrary's joined them.

"Daddy said he thought we all started together, and that the two-mile runners would turn around and come back," Katie said. "I told him I didn't think so, but we started the race anyway."

The farther away from downtown they got, the more it looked like Katie was right. By the time they reached the two-mile mark of the 10K course on Owens Drive, they knew they had either missed the turn-around or were actually in the wrong race.

"Daddy was too embarrassed to quit, so he asked me if I thought I could make it back," Katie said, "I told him I'd try." So on they went – up Mountainwood to the three-mile mark; down Bankhead to the four-mile mark (Katie was in new long distance territory by then); on through Old Towne; and finally, after one hour and 15 minutes, the finish line was in sight.

Katie felt a burst of adrenaline and pulled away from Landon to cross the line in 1:15:38. He finished two places back in 1:15:53.

Both were faster than 52 other 10K runners.

Ankle Sprains

nkle sprain is one of the most common running injuries seen in a sports medicine clinic. We estimate it amounts to 3-7% of all injuries seen. Probably this rate is actually much higher, due to self-treatment.

We have all, at one time or another, suffered from an ankle sprain. Many go on to heal quite rapidly, while others turn out to be quite chronic in nature. In general, the ankle can be considered a type of hinge joint that moves in all three body planes to accommodate movement of the foot.

The Diagnosis

Due to the angulation of the axis of the ankle joint, we tend to roll out on the ankle, rather than in. This results in what are called eversion sprains.

There are four strong ligaments that bind down the outside of the ankle and prevent it from rolling over. The most commonly sprained of the ligaments is the anterior talo fibular. The strong band on the inside of the ankle is called the deltoid ligament. The front and back of the ankle have strong attachments.

In sports medicine, we generally classify ankle sprains into three categories. Grade I is a stretch injury of the outside of the ankle involving the anterior talo fibular ligament. This produces mild swelling and tenderness. The most common injury, it heals rapidly.

Grade II sprains involve the ATF ligament plus the calcaneo fibular ligament. These are more painful and swollen, and usually heal within three weeks. These first two grades involve a partial tearing of the ligament.

Grade III sprains usually involve a complete tear of the two aforementioned ligaments and possibly the posterior tibio fibular ligament (a high tear). There is usually joint instability and these are very painful.

There is also a grade IV sprain which involves the deltoid ligament and is classified as an eversion sprain.

The Cure

In general, we tend toward "functional treatment" of the ankle. This entails rest for a brief period and early return to mobilization and pre-injury activity level. With the use of an air cast, the athlete is allowed a quicker return to activity. Although this sounds great, there are some caveats which we will discuss later.

For the Grade I and II sprains, there is an easy formula which the athlete should follow: RICE (rest, ice, compression and elevation). This should be performed for the first 24-72 hours. The ice, massage and elevation should be performed six times a day for 15-20 minutes. Aspirin, Advil or any of the anti-inflammatories may be of some help in reducing swelling.

The use of the air cast splint allows early return to activity, and most Grade

I sprain sufferers can resume running in 24-28 hours. The air cast allows the runner to perform light jogging with linear running (running in a straight line, no hills). This is a very helpful device.

Grade II sprains can usually be treated similarly to Grade I, but activity should not be started for 72 hours and the use of an air cast splint is necessary for two to three weeks. One may have to incorporate swimming, bicycling and other non-weight bearing cross-training techniques to strengthen the ankle without weight-bearing.

Grade II sprains are quite serious and may require a lower leg cast for three weeks prior to functional treatment. Prior to return to running activities, the athlete will need to use isometric exercises, agility training and resistance exercises to completely rehabilitate the ankle. Surgical intervention is rare.

Although the "functional treatment" of the sprained ankle sounds convincing and allows a rapid return to running activities, one must be aware of other problems. A recent study showed that although most simple ankle sprains are just that – simple ankle sprains – 25% involve an associated injury. These include fracture of the 5th metatarsal (Jones fracture), fracture of the os trigonum, taler dome lesions or fractures, nerve injury, impingement syndrome, and tendon pathologies.

So, a rapid return to activity after treatment of the "simple ankle sprain" may cause other damage. Therefore, if the sports medicine specialist has a "high index of suspicion" that there may be an associated injury, a more thorough history and x-ray exam may be needed.

Following these guidelines, treatment of the sprained ankle will become much easier and the athlete can return to his or her pre-injury level of activity quite rapidly.

Crim Festival of Races Preview

by RON MARINUCCI

The August stop for the Indy Life Masters Circuit is Flint, Mich., home of the Crim Festival of Races. Although the Crim Festival includes six races, ranging from a one-mile run and 5K racewalk to an 8K race, it is the marquee ten-miler that will grab the interest of the Indy racers on August 22.

The Indy Life prize money at the Crim is $5000. The race also counts in the overall standings for the Indy Life Circuit, which offers a final $50,000 purse, $22,000 to the overall winner and $28,000 to the age-graded winner.

Masters prize money from the Crim itself will total at least $2500 for both women and men.

The race also serves as the USATF National Masters 10 Mile Championships. U.S. masters who are members of the USATF are eligible for a piece of the $6600 purse awarded to the top ten age-graded winners.

With such incentives, Crim executive director Anne Gault expects a strong masters field. Commitments have been received from Cindy Keeler, Tatyana Pozdniakova, Gloria Jansen, Joan Hartnett Ottaway, and Sonny Monioz. Warren Utes, Tom Mather, June Machala, Peter Koech, and defending masters champion Keith Anderson will be among the men's field.

Gault is particularly excited about Anderson's return. His time last year (48:16) was only 21 seconds off New Zealander John Campbell's 1990 world masters mark set here. It's the closest anyone has come to it since. Buoyed by his effort at his first Crim, Anderson later said, "Next year I'll come back and see if I can break that record."

Gault echoed that after talking to Anderson recently, "He is going to try to break the world record here. That's what he's training for."

Anderson is quite a story. "He didn't run at all until his thirties," Gault said. "He was a pack-a-day smoker and very overweight." No longer. He'll get a chance to tell that story. Gault is bringing him back as the featured speaker at Friday's Crim Expo.

The Crim course will offer the Indy runners a challenge. Starting in downtown Flint, after a couple of miles it winds its way through several diverse, but well-kept residential neighborhoods. At the five-mile mark come the notorious Bradley Hills, a series of sharp inclines that extend half a mile. There are several other shorter upgrades before the quarter-mile finish down the bricks of Saginaw Street.

After last year's race, Anderson told a reporter, "It's a good, tough course... You have to work all the way here, there are no easy bits."

The 1997 Crim attracted 14,760 entrants; 5766 ran the ten-miler. This will be the 22nd running of the Crim. □

Freihofer's Run

she had sparked the flames 12 months previously. While Regina Joyce took the title in Carlsbad, Wysocki, it transpired, was left to convalesce through an ankle injury that stubbornly refused to heal.

Still, Wysocki's arrival in Albany stimulated as much conjecture as it had the previous year. This time, though, it focused on whether she could return to her previous heights while turning back the assault of the Big Three – Welzel, Samuelson, and Joyce – who returned once again to push her to the limit and to challenge for the USATF national masters title.

The problematic ankle, however, and the volume of training it had prohibited Wysocki from undertaking was, inevitably, something that the tall Californian could not overcome against such talented rivals. Although she forced the pace from the gun, much as she had in 1997, this time the pressure, the burgeoning heat, and the rolling hills – runnable when fit, draining when at less than 100% – proved too much.

Remarkably, it was Samuelson, the paragon of women's marathon running in the USA, who was most committed, most aggressive, and, ultimately, most successful. Under the accumulation of so many long-distance accolades, Samuelson's prowess over the shorter distances – even, indeed, on the track – is often forgotten. She offered a forceful reminder on the streets of Albany in this year's FRW.

"I came here for my masters debut last year," recounted the 1984 Olympic marathon champion. "I placed third and was a little disappointed. I really wanted it this year."

Samuelson wanted it, and she got it. Wysocki pushed the early pace, hanging within striking distance of the open leaders – Lynn Jennings, Cheri Goddard, Libbie Hickman, et al – but as the pace took a toll, Welzel made a forceful challenge close to the halfway mark and surged into the lead, making a bid for victory.

Charging all the harder, though, was Samuelson. First she flew past Wysocki; then, with Welzel in view, she pressed onward, into the lead and on to the finish line 10 seconds to the good in a time of 16:33. Welzel held on to second in 16:43, with Wysocki third in 16:51, a far cry from her 16:06 of 1997.

"I didn't feel very fast, but I felt strong," commented Samuelson. "It's a big win any time you can beat Ruth or Jane."

For her victory, Samuelson collected prize money in the amount of $1500, with Welzel taking $800 and Wysocki $400. In the age-graded section, Welzel turned the tables, edging Samuelson, 15:32 to 15:38, Welzel being 43 years of age to Samuelson's 41.

Koech, Samuelson Win Indy Life Circuit Races

Round two of the Indy Life Circuit featured separate races for masters men and women, with the usual fast times, incredible age-graded performances, and all-around solid competition that Circuit competitors have come to expect. Peter Koech took masters honors at the Berwyn 5000 in Berwyn, Ill., May 16, while Olympic marathon champion Joan Samuelson showed her speed in winning the USA masters 5K title at Freihofer's Run for Women in Albany, N.Y., May 30.

Koech, the 1988 Olympic steeplechase silver medalist from Albuquerque, N.M., won his first Indy Life Circuit race in 14:43. Under warm, windy conditions, the 40-year-old Koech outdistanced Craig Young, 41, Colorado Springs, Colo., who ran 14:56. Koech finished fourth in the overall competition. Charlie Gray, 43, Lee's Summit, Mo., was third master in 15:11.

In the Indy Life age-graded race, Magna, Utah's Stephen Lester, 55, produced the best performance as his 16:15 adjusted to 13:56. Warren Utes, 77, from nearby Park Forest, finished second in the age-graded category (his 20:56 adjusted to 14:01), while Koech's 14:43 age-graded to 14:10, good for third place.

Overall, seven men – Lester; Utes; Koech; Jack Nelson, 58, Winnetka, Ill., 17:00 (14:11 age-graded); Young; Gray; and Fay Bradley, 60, Washington, D.C., 17:30 (14:21 age-graded) – scored over 90% on the WAVA tables, or at world-class level. Nelson also set a U.S. single-age record with his time.

At the 16th Berwyn 5000, Young, who again placed high in both scoring divisions (masters and age-graded), earned enough points to move into first place in both Indy Life Circuit divisions. In the masters standings, the 1997 Circuit grand prix masters champion holds a three-point lead over Koech and Steve Plascencia, 41, Shoreview, Minn., 48 points to 45 points, while in the age-graded standings he leads Utes by two points, 181 to 179. At Berwyn, the second Indy Life Circuit race for men, 28 eligible masters runners scored Circuit points.

Although not known for her speed, Samuelson, 41, Freeport, Me., used her strength to win her first USA masters title in 16:33 under warm conditions (80s). Two-time Freihofer's masters winner, Jane Welzel, 43, Ft. Collins, finished 10 seconds back (16:43). Ruth Wysocki, 41, Canyon Lake, Calif., was third (16:51).

Although Welzel, the 1997 Indy Life Circuit grand prix masters champion, was not the Freihofer's masters winner, her 16:43 adjusted to the best age-graded performance (15:32 or 92.7%), worth $1500. Four women – Welzel, Samuelson, Wysocki, and Nashville, Tenn.'s Victoria Crisp, 45 – produced times at the world class level (90% or higher). Samuelson, Welzel, and June Machala, 67, Spokane, Wash., also set U.S. single-age records.

As an Indy Life Circuit race, the top 10 masters women overall and the top 44 age-graded women who scored 70% or higher on the WAVA tables earned Circuit points.

After two races, 43-year-old Patty Valadka, Houston, Tex., leads the masters division with 45 points, followed by Regina Joyce, 41, Lynwood, Wash., second with 42 points. Machala, who finished fourth in the 1997 Indy Life agegraded grand prix, holds a 19-point lead over Joyce, 189 to 170, in the age-graded standings.

The next Indy Life Circuit event is the Bastille Day Celebration 8K in Newport Beach, Calif., on July 18. Masters will be competing for $5000 in prize money. The Indy Life Circuit, sponsored by the Indianapolis Life Insurance Company, features eight races (seven per gender) and $76,500 in race prize money, plus a $50,000 grand prix purse.

Like last year, the distances range from 5K to the marathon, each race offers at least $2500 in masters prize money per gender, and there is a $50,000 grand prix purse – $22,000 for the masters division and $28,000 for the agegraded division. Altitude and Periodization Training tudies on altitude training are a bit confusing. However, the following points noted by Leonard Jansen are reliable rules of thumb:

1) When at increased altitude, one should race within the first 24-48 hours, or wait until 10-14 days have elapsed. This timing is also true if you go to a lower altitude to race.

2) For sea level dwellers, any race above 1000 meters (approx. 3300 ft.) in altitude can be significant. Few people do very well above 7000 ft. under any circumstances. Only those who live and train constantly at that level have much of a chance.

3) Ability to perform at altitude is partially genetic. More so as the altitude gets higher.

4) Altitude training is best used in racewalking for base training. Speed and hard pacing type work are better done at lower altitude. Ideal is to spend the winter months at altitude and then go to sea level in late winter.

Pending U.S. RW Records

On May 30, in East Lyme, Conn., Dave Romansky made a pending new American M60 one-mile racewalking record of 7:10.3. The race was sponsored by the Connecticut Walkers.

On June 6, in Rutgers, N.J. Romansky made another pending American record for M60 in the 5K with a time of 24:12.0. A 1968 Olympian, Romansky started competing in the masters program a few years ago after a long layoff. Entering the M60 age division in May, he now poses a formidable challenge to all existing masters records in that division.

(We will publish new pending records here if they been cleared with Bev LaVeck, Racewalking Chairman, USATF (address on p. 2). Remember records must be set on a certified, curbed track course or certified road course with the required judges present. Send pending records to Elaine Ward, North American Racewalking Foundation (NARF), P.O. Box 50312, Pasadena, CA 91115-0312. Include date, event site, a statement of Bev's approval, and any pertinent related information.)

5) A strange paradox: all things being equal between two people, generally the person who is in slightly worse shape will do better at high altitude in terms of avoiding altitude sickness and performance degradation. This is because they ventilate their lungs more forcefully.

6) Dehydration occurs fastest at altitude in most people.

7) Stress from ultraviolet rays can be significant above 5000 ft.

Periodization

Periodization training refers to a long-range system of planned training that divides an athlete's workout schedule into a number of periods of time, each having a specific training goal. The time periods can be as long as the four years between Olympics, or as short as a week's workout plan.

Racewalker Marlene Coe, of California, in the 5000, 1997 Masters Championships - San Diego. The 5000 racewalk in the 1998 Championships. Orono, Me., will be held on July 31.

Within the period of a year, training divisions are commonly referred to as macrocycles, phases, microcycles, training sessions and training units.

The major purpose of periodization is to make training as objective as possible. A periodized training plan provides a structure for comparing past training and results to present training and results. For example, a coach sets specific, measurable goals along with objective tests of progress for four years, an Olympiad. Tests will include competitions, time trials and lab tests. Graphs are then made to map or visualize the ongoing process. With this information, coach and athlete can more accurately predict future performance levels.

Periodization is just beginning to be appreciated and adopted in the U.S. According to William Freeman, in his book, Peak When it Counts, Periodization for American Track & Field, "most elite athletes in Europe have very detailed training plans." He expands on this to include the "world's best track and field athletes." For example, Enrique Pena, the coach of Jefferson Perez, winner of the Olympic gold medal in the 20K walk in Atlanta, devised a detailed periodization plan for Perez, spanning the 1996 and 2000 Olympics.

Soviet Origins

Periodization was developed in the Soviet Union by L.P. Matveyev. In 1965 he published a book called Periodization of Sports Training. Matveyev continued his research on the effects of training and by the 1970s the Soviet Training process was divided into macrocycles of one year. These were subdivided into mesocycles of two to six weeks, and then further divided into microcycles of one week.

Matveyev's work was used and expanded in Eastern Germany and the other former Eastern Bloc countries. While this experimentation was occurring, its innovators were cautioning against any rigid application of their research. They recognized the impos-

On May 24, the USATF 15K Racewalk Championships were contested in Elk Grove Village, Ill. Jonathan Matthews, 41, Indiana, annihilated the men's masters field, coming across the line in 1:07:41. Sandra DeNoon, 42, Illinois, led the ladies with a 1:23:23. Age-group standout was Max Green, M65, who handily won his division in 1:24:26.

Overall winners were Tim Seaman, 26, of California, 1:04:46, and Debbie Laurence, 36, Wisconsin, 1:13:24.

In accompanying races, Jonathan Udesky, 42, 29:57, and Jane Herring, 40, 37:18, grabbed the gold in the 5K, while Michael Burris, 51, 59:07, and Connie Wininger, 43, 1:18:45, cruised in first in the 10K.

sibility of any coach anticipating all of the many factors affecting an athlete, and advised flexibility in adapting the overall plan to changing needs and circumstances.

While more and more countries were adopting periodization, American coaches continued using traditional seasonal training methods of breaking a year into fall, winter, spring and summer seasons. A typical running/racewalking season consisted of fall crosscountry, indoor track, outdoor track, and the summer off. However, with a few exceptions, this seasonal training method has brought scant success in developing world class racewalkers. Americans are walking substantially behind the leaders in all three internationally competitive distances.

(The next article on periodization will summarize the basic blocks of a year's plan, the principles of training and their specific applications. - ew)

Caravan of Throwers

Two-time javelin world record holder Tom Petranoff will be leading a "caravan of throwers" from his new home area in Rhode Island. Tom will put on throwing clinics prior to the championships. Utilizing new products from his company, Tom will add a huge enthusiastic dynamism to the event. Tom issues a challenge to all throwers in other areas, to form their own caravan of throwers to attempt to beat the Easterners.

Deadlines

The first entry deadline to assure a confirmation letter and inclusion in the program, and to greatly assist in formation of heats, trials, flights, etc., is July 10th. However, entrants will be accepted after that date.

Campus Housing

We have a number of rooms in a nice dormitory complex available at reasonable rates. Cafeteria meals can be bought on an individual basis or as a package. You do not have to stay in the complex to buy various meal plans or individual meals. But they must be purchased in advance. This will allow the staff to make wise purchases of various foods. If you have special dietary needs, please telephone them and they will assist you. They will be open from 6:00 a.m. - 6:00 p.m. for hot meals and cold buffet. To make reservations, please call Telephone Conferences and Catering at 207-581-

Shuttle buses will run to and from the airport to campus dorms at selected times (when major flights arrive), and from most hotels daily to and from campus. Many hotels have shuttles to the airport. A small fee to pay for gas will be charged. A welcome booth will be at the airport to assist

The track is by Martin Surfacing Company, which surfaced the New Orleans facility and has a cushiony, fast surface. All field events are beside the track, easy for family and friends to cheer you on from under the pine trees for the throws, or watching from the stands.

Don't forget to register for the Saturday evening championship cookout and downeast entertainment. Bring a T-shirt to swap. And prepare to enjoy the downeast humor and Acadian music.

Check the back page entry form for further information and clip and mail the entry blank. It would be great to have the largest turnout for an exciting four days of competition in the State of Maine "where life is - the way it should be."

Remembering Browning Ross

can remember precisely when I first raced against Browning Ross. It was at the U.S. Olympic Trials for track & field in 1952. In that bygone age, the Trials were conducted over a two-day weekend, contested in the Los Angeles Coliseum. But for the benefit of distance runners, the Trials in the 10,000 meters were held the previous weekend at the National AAU Championships in Long Beach, California. A junior at Carleton College, I ran that race. So did Browning.

Browning placed fourth in the 10,000 and narrowly missed qualifying for his second Olympic team, but succeeded the following weekend in Los Angeles with a third place in the 3000 meter steeplechase. I finished far behind, but returned home, excited about training for my final year in college.

What a Concept!

While competing on the West Coast, I learned a vital secret from my fellow competitors. Until that point, I would begin to run a few weeks before our first cross-country meet in fall, quit for the winter, begin training for track in the spring, then quit for the summer.

But the other runners I met at the NCAA Championships and other meets in California that summer of 1952 told me that they actually trained 12 months a year.

Wow!

Browning Ross may not have been one of the individuals who offered that clue to improved performance, but he was always eager to share information and advice.

Returning to Chicago, I called the local AAU office to ask about races that summer. "There are none," I was told. Shrugging, I spent the rest of the summer on the beach or playing golf, but eventually I got the message that year-round training produced results.

Little Opportunity

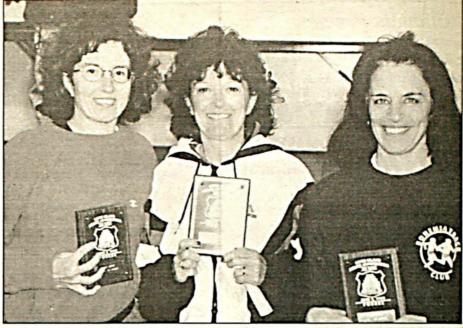

Yet there was this competition gap. I was soon to graduate from college, a time when most runners of that era retired from the sport. For good reason. In Chicago, the only available races for out-of-school runners in the early 1950s were two track meets in June and two cross-country races on the Thanksgiving weekend.

Things weren't much better elsewhere across the United States, unless you lived in New England. Because of the influence of the Boston Marathon, New England was a hotbed of road race activity. There was a smattering of other races on the Eastern Seaboard. West of the Hudson River was a vast wasteland, devoid of any competition, either on the roads or on the track.

Browning Ross would change all that.

Over the next half dozen years, I got to know Browning, a Villanova University graduate who lived in Woodbury, New Jersey. We saw each other at occasional national championships. In addition to his two Olympic appearances and a gold medal in the 1500 meters at the 1951 Pan American Games in Buenos Aires, Argentina, he had won eight national titles. I was a "wannabe."

We corresponded. He founded a newsletter called Long Distance Log, which printed results of road races. I subscribed, awed at the competitive opportunities for those runners lucky enough to live in Boston and environs.

A Historic Moment

In February, 1958, I came to New York City to compete in the National AAU Indoor Championships at Madison Square Garden. Knowing that many runners and officials from different parts of the country would be coming to New York, Browning had sent out a call for individuals interested in long distance running to meet at the Paramount Hotel, where most of the athletes stayed. Trying to rest for my competition, I missed the early part of the meeting, but did join the group later in Browning's tiny hotel room. All the chairs and space on the bed were occupied, so I sat on the radiator.

That was the founding of the Road Runners Club of America.

The recommendation was that all of us should return home and organize road races in our local areas, even if only a half dozen runners appeared. We did just that in Chicago, and that was about the number that appeared. Forty years later, 20,000 will probably run the LaSalle Banks Chicago Marathon, and that's far from being the largest road race or marathon in the U.S.

I mention the name of the sponsor, because back in 1958 none of us anticipated that as many as 20,000 runners would appear for a road race, or that a large financial institution might pay a significant sum of money to attach its name to the event.

Taking a Back Seat

Somewhere in the interim, however, Browning Ross moved out of the mainstream. He remained at the forefront of the Road Runners Club of America leadership for about a decade, until others arrived to shoulder the burden. He continued publishing Long Distance Log as an informational labor of love, until another publication (Distance Running News, later to be renamed Runner's World) came along to relieve him of that burden too.

Browning moved to the periphery of our sport, content to coach at the local high school, sell shoes at the running store he founded, officiate at meets and road races and offer advice to "wannabes." Rather than being jealous of those who stood on his shoulders to achieve higher levels of fame, Browning seemed happy to be back at the grass roots.

A Peaceful Passage

On April 27, Browning Ross drove to a golf course near his home for his usual three-mile run. He was 74 years old, but still running regularly. Following his workout, he climbed in his car. He died of an aneurysm, a collapsing of the arterial wall. Death was apparently sudden, and probably relatively painless. A lot of Browning's friends later would agree that it was a pretty good way to go. But we'll miss him.

Our sport wouldn't be what it is today without Browning Ross.

NO FALSE START RULE

We have worked on the issue of rescinding the No False Start Rule for over a year, because we believe the input of the athletes involved (sprinters/hurdlers) is crucial. We intentionally made the issue public nationwide, and made sprinters aware that they will have a "voice" in the vote by getting their signatures and comments.

What is the point of one person bringing the issue up again before the same people (mostly non-sprinters) in the masters committee and not allowing the nation's sprinters/hurdlers to be heard? That's a dictatorship, disguised by a "vote." (No one should say that they "asked" a few people about an issue and thereby justify a vote for the entire nation.)

Our 600 petitions from athletes all over the U.S. and some from other countries, articles in NMN, a bulletin board display at the 1994 USATF Convention, and comments from the WAVA President and the IAAF should set a convention precedent in operational procedures demonstrating that the voice of the athlete is more important than a bad decision made over and over again by the same people (who attend the convention), and who are not representing the interests of the masters sprinters/hurdlers.

Louise Mead Tricard Hank Nottingham Satellite Beach, Florida

I believe there is a good possibility of a compromise to satisfy both sides of the No False Start Rule controversy. I am not a sprinter, but I am concerned with maximum performance and I can sympathize with the sprinters who want the protection of one false start to try for the best possible time. On the other hand, the main argument for the No False Start Rule (that false starts consume too much time) has merit. At major meets, where there are many heats and many age groups, it is almost impossible to run on time and still allow for restarts.

Why not compromise? Impose the No False Start Rule in all preliminary heats and allow a false start in all finals. The better sprinters, who are seriously concerned with peak performances, will have no trouble waiting for the gun in preliminary heats because their only concern at that point is to qualify for the next round. Meet officials can allow enough time for restarts in the finals, and the sprinters can then challenge the edge of the start envelope and still be protected against one false move.

The Weight Room

"I Can't Get Started"

ne of the most perplexing questions that I get asked is "How do I get started in masters throwing events?" The first time I heard it, I thought to myself, "What a stupid question. I didn't have any trouble getting started. Why can't these individuals (actually, I think it was closer to "blockheads") figure it out for themselves?"

Then I had to admit that when I got into the masters in the early seventies, Southern California, where I lived, was the birthplace of masters t&f several years before, and the San Fernando Valley, where I made my home, was a hotbed of masters activity. L.A. Valley College, where I taught, was the home of the Grandfather Games (which eventually became the Dan Aldrich Memorial/Anteaters Meet, now at UC-Irvine in Orange County) founded by George Ker, an outstanding shot and discus man and pioneer in the masters movement.

So, it was easy to make contacts and get involved when I discovered the masters concept. In 1971, I bought a new Gill javelin that (get this!) I saw displayed in the window of a combination hardware and sporting goods store in the City of San Fernando. During the 1973 season, I participated in 13 meets, most within an hour's drive.

After this realization, I decided to answer the question by writing a "How to Get Started" handout. By the time I was half done, I had three pages, filled with reservations, qualifiers, admonitions, equivocations, revelations, and baloney that I had accumulated in the more than 25 years of masters participation.

A Short Questionnaire

Instead, I decided to do a short questionnaire to enable prospective masters throwers to determine their readiness for entrance into the program. Here it is:

Competitive Apparel:

a. I intend to compete in a thong

SUZY HESS

Becky Sisley, of Oregon, was fourth in the W55 javelin and gold medalist in the pole vault, 1997 WAVA Championships-Durban.

b. I will wear a black, one-piece bathing suit, circa 1910.

c. I will throw in a Nike $200 matching tank top and tights ensemble.

Equipment:

a. I don't own any implements and intend to use everybody else's, especially javelins, or the meet-supplied junk.

b. I own four of each specified implement, which I'll color code differently for every meet.

c. I'll be using implements that I stole from Elvis Presley High when I competed there.

Training Regimen:

a. I consume four El Ropo cigars and five margaritas a day, usually before lunch.

b. I lift, throw, watch training videos, and talk to coaches every day but intend to get serious once I become involved.

c. I won't raise one cheek off the couch until the day of competition.

Dietary Supplements:

a. I take Flintstones' Chewable Fruit-flavored, Multi-purpose Vita-Yums with my Lucky Charms cereal every morning.

b. I live in Eugene, Oregon, and I'm into St. John's wort (for mild depression), echinacea (to alleviate cold symptoms), and ginkgo biloba (to treat memory loss).

c. I have a medicine cabinet full of all the illegal performance enhancing drugs known to man.

Attitude

 a. I want to compete for the fun of it, but will send letter bombs to my opposition.

b. I don't mind losing as long as I get a medal.

c. I hear that counterfeit birth certificates are a dime a dozen in L.A.

If most of the statements above apply, you're ready for masters competition at the national level and should enter the 1998 Championships in Orono, Me., at the end of this month. You'll fit in easily. However, you may be a little sociopathic and should perhaps seek counseling immediately after Maine and before your next meet.

If none of the statements above is appropriate to you, sign up for the Nationals also. You, too, will fit in well. I'll be available for advice on how really to get started in the throws. It shouldn't take more than four hours. Look for me. I'll be wearing a black bathing suit, smoking a cigar, and using somebody's else's implements. See you there.

Senz Breaks U.S. Hammer Record at BTC Meet

by GORDON SEIFERT

North Carolina's Marilyn Senz's pending 142-7 hammer throw erased the existing W35 U.S. record by eight feet in the Birmingham TC Classic, Birmingham, Ala., June 6. The present record is 134-6 by Sarah Boslaugh in 1995.

Other top performers were Tom Kennel, 77, winner of the age-graded 100m and the triple jump with a 27-2. Jim Stookey, M65, was second in the age-graded 100m and won the triple jump with a 33-31/2.

Chuck Sochor, M70, was the minidecathlon award winner. Gordon Seifert, M65, won the Jim Law Memorial 400 award with a 68.31.

Tom Bynum, M30, cleared 14-4½ in the pole vault. Bill Duckworth, 63, with a 138-2, and Chris Clark, 41, with a 177-9, achieved good javelin marks despite a soggy runway.

The fourth annual Southeastern Police and Fire Championships were run in conjunction with the meet.

Great Gildersleeve Galumphs to Victory

by MAURY DEAN

In our checkered road warrior careers, we runners have been up and down and out and, like Frank Sinatra, we've "picked ourselves up and gotten back in the race." One of my greatest delights is seeking the Secret Race.

I know the mega stampedes are mandatory when you're running well. You confront the top talents in your region. Races in Central Park, for instance, beat you up with hills and age-group speedsters.

If you're like me, you seek the offbeat adventures, flying on flat, fast avenues in tiny local races, where even a senior citizen has a shot at the big time.

My pal Ralph Epifanio, publisher of the Islandwide Runner, and his burgeoning family staged such a 5K race on Long Island's South Shore in Moriches on May 18. We were blessed with beautiful weather (54 degrees, drizzle, and windless). Seventy or so intrepid souls toed the starting line, and, whoosh, we were off.

Swashbuckling through the little town at a metronomic six minutes a mile, Roger Fluhr, newly 50, and I, 55, noticed that we were strangely leading the race at the half mile, our years sapping our speed, but not our determination.

Young David Gatz (M30-39) passed us at the 5:55 mile split, and Roger and I chased him down at 1½, our eyes on the BIG PRIZE for the winner – a humungous 10-gallon Gatorade keg, with thermoses tucked in like a Russian matyryorska doll. Alas, neither of us recognized the supercharged afterburners kicking in on the Great Gildersleeve.

Throckmorton P. Gildersleeve was a character in a 1943 comedy, but this was Brian Gildersleeve, a young lad of 43, charging through the pack, unbeknownst to the zooming Fluhr and Dean, who dreamed of Gatorade and victory.

By the turnaround, overlooking a steely Great South Bay, I was leading by five seconds with Fluhr, Gatz, and Gildersleeve in hot pursuit. By mile two, the 11:55 split represented my Motown birthplace address (Atkinson St., 1942), and my eight-second lead spawned visions of being the first senior citizen since Joe Cordero on L.I. to win a race outright.

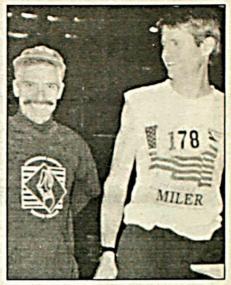

At Shoney's Restaurant in Philadelphia on Valentine's Day, I got my first 10% Senior Citizen Discount. "You can have the discount," I mumbled to the thirty-something waitress. "Give me back the years."

Then the Great Gildersleeve did something to me that I absolutely would have done to him, had our ages been reversed. He came bounding out of the first pack, blasted by Fluhr and Gatz and by the 2½-mile mark, and floated annoyingly on my left shoulder. He made a major move, and, with long strides my penguinish flurry couldn't match, zoomed past me and my dreams.

With memories of my 16:45 5K days a decade ago, I slogged to the faraway finish. I'd lost three seconds at the turn and lost the race (quite legitimately via this excellent move) by 3½ seconds. I would have been happier with photo-finish silver, but, by the time we're all this age, it's nice to be running at all and to have overcome 1997 injuries and to once again run near six-minute miles with an 18:28.

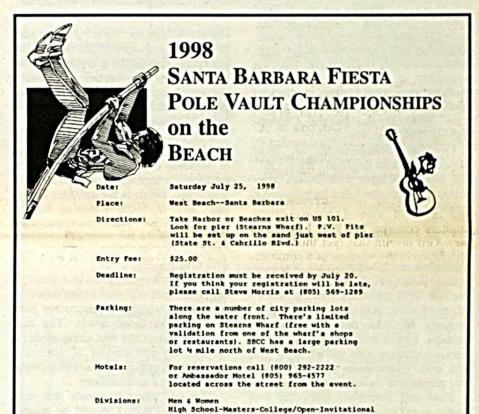

Gatz was third (18:54), Fluhr fourth

Gatz was third (18:54), Fluhr fourth (18:57). Sam Soccoli won the M60 race (26:59). Louise Prescott was the first W40+ in 29:07. The rain spattered down on the awards ceremony, but silver shone from the sunshine beyond the clouds. The gold, too. And the gargantuan Gatorade jug for the galumphing Gildersleeve.

Qualifying Standards for National Championships

In the February issue of the National Masters News, Roland Rust, an LDR athlete, wrote in the "Speaker's Corner" interesting commentary: "The main problem with USATF Masters Track & Field Championships, is that competing in and winning such championships is not seen as prestigious. Nobody wants to participate in a national event that is not important, with medals won that do not mean anything." Rust recommends that athletes be required to qualify for the National Masters Track & Field Championships, making participation and medaling more meaningful.

Karen Boen supported Rust's opinion in her letter published in the May issue. According to Boen, she supports some sort of qualifier to guarantee a more national meet feeling, contrary to what she experienced in a non-competitive 3000 at the Indoor Championships this past March.

Douglas Schneebeck, of New Mexico, wrote in the June "Write On!" that he did not agree with Boen's comments. He explained that he believed a qualifying standard would not solve her dilemma of being too fast for the field she found herself in at Boston.

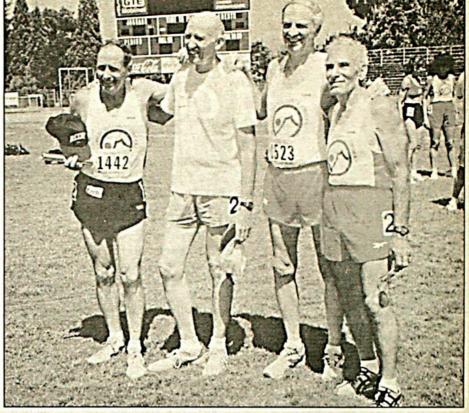

I have used the above three commentaries to illustrate that there is active dialogue throughout masters track & field regarding the implementation of some sort of qualifying procedures for our national championships. I have heard from many athletes concerning this matter, both pro and con. Discussions are interesting and persuasive in both directions.

First and foremost, from the pro camp, is improving the prestige of the championships by requiring some sort of qualifier to guarantee competing athletes proficient fields. It is frustrating to many athletes to invest time and money to compete against people who are "trying" an event for the first time, and at a national championship, no less.

The con group counters that qualifying standards will lessen the number of athletes entering the meet. Meet directors, counting heads, could be concerned, if this is factual. One might take note that the National Senior Games requires qualification and usually draws twice the number of entries compared to the masters meets, and with fewer age groups.

The pro camp suggests that qualifying be done at regional and/or association meets, which will encourage participation on those levels. The congroup is concerned that some areas of the country are devoid of adequate competition opportunities which could be designated as qualifiers.

The pro camp suggests that any qualifying standard should be attainable by any athlete who displays a reasonable level of proficiency for the events for which he or she wants to qualify. The con group believes that all athletes, regardless of their proficiency, should be able to compete in a national championship for the enjoyment of the experience.

Many more pros and cons have arisen in discussion, and I've only mentioned these few to stimulate your reaction and response. A short survey has been prepared by the National Masters News (see this page) for those interested in making known their thoughts. We look forward to your response.

Sponsorship Needed for T&F Program

uring the past 18 months, there has been much discussion regarding the lack of funding for the Masters Track & Field Committee, and how we must "do something." No one, particularly anyone who has been heavily involved in the masters program, should disagree with the need for additional financial support. Disagreement among committee members as to the best approach for securing additional funds (e.g., marketing our entire program or just our premier event, the outdoor championships), and how those funds should be utilized (e.g., local or regional support, prize money, awards, etc.) is expected and should be decided democratically.

We know, because of the Demographic Survey instituted at our '94 Outdoor Championships, that masters athletes have certain demographics that appeal to specific types of companies. We've seen sponsorships with a number of these companies and masters organizations come to fruition, first with the U.S. National Senior Sports Organization, and most recently with the 1998 NIKE World Masters Games, whose sponsors include the U.S. Postal Service, VISA, Fred Meyer, Inc., NIKE, Inc., and Frito-Lav.

How and When?

How can we - and when can we get our share of these sponsorships for our masters athletics program? Why are others successful in getting sponsors while we are not? As with most things, there is no "one" answer. Both USNSSO and the NIKE WMG, are multi-sport organizations and events, which have a special appeal to some sponsors. Both organizations have staff whose primary responsibility is to recruit sponsors. Outside marketing agencies are also utilized.

From listening to Craig Masback at Convention, we can be assured he not only wants to secure sponsorship for the masters track & field program, but he is also aware of the many resources available to help achieve that goal. Currently, however, Craig needs to be concentrating on sponsorship for the entire program of USATF.

What do we do in the meantime? Just sit back and wait? No! I believe we can and should "do something" to help make sure we have the most marketable program available. We can begin by making additional resources available to Craig for use in sponsorship proposals.

Positive Steps We can also:

 Solidify the goals of masters track & field. The Committee needs to review the goals of masters track & field, make any necessary refinements, and submit them to the full committee for approval. These goals and how they can be achieved should then be widely distributed to all masters athletes.

- Define in writing what we can do with the additional money. We know from previous discussions that ideas will be numerous. The budget should reflect the goals of the committee. At a minimum, a sponsorship proposal should include an overview of how the funds would be utilized.
- · Provide "positive publicity" to enhance the proposals. This could include magazine articles, photos, videos, interviews, and commercial ventures using masters athletes of all
- Provide leadership. A long-standing goal of the masters committee has been to provide opportunities for participation in all track & field events, including racewalking. Lately it seems that several self-styled critics have placed more emphasis on attacking the sponsors, price structure, etc., of a non-USATF event, rather than looking at it as being another opportunity in which masters can choose to compete.

Providing leadership doesn't mean USATF needs to be the sponsoring organization for all track & field events. As the national governing body for athletics, our leadership should work with and encourage all non-USATF competitions to become sanctioned, thereby assuring participants that organizers will follow USATF (and WAVA) rules.

Getting Involved

Several years ago, Christel Miller participated in a Senior Games competition in Southern California. When Christel saw that the meet was lacking in some areas, she didn't stand back and discourage USATF members from participating. There were no letters to the editor. On the contrary, she got involved with the seniors and with the meet organizers. She used her expertise, gave clinics for beginning athletes, and made sure they followed USATF rules. The end result is that masters athletics (both card-carrying USATF members and non) have another well-run USATF-sanctioned event in which to compete.

· Listen and learn. The multi-sport competitions aren't going to go away. Instead of reacting negatively to their methods of operation, perhaps we need to take a step back and see if they have ideas and methods that might be worth adapting to our USATF events. A current example might be adding clinics or instruction seminars during the time-frame of our outdoor championships. To date, the 1998 NIKE World Masters Games have added nine clinics in a variety of events, all at no additional charge to the athletes. This was done to make sure that all athletes receive the most value possible for their all-inclusive entry fee.

Principles of Training – Part I

(Earl Fee, of Canada, holds the M60 world record for the 800 (2:14.33) and is acknowledged as one of the best masters middle-distance runners in the world. This is the first part of a condensed version of one of 24 chapters in Fee's completed book, Secrets of a World Master's Champion, to be published sometime next year. The second section of his Principles of Training will appear in a later issue of the NMN.)

bey the laws – the laws of running, to keep out of the court of defeat and the jail of injury. The following are some of the important principles and rules which form the basis of training for running.

Principle of Base Training

A sound base of aerobic training for about three months or less should follow the outdoor track season and precede the sharpening (competitive/peaking) season.

This enables the body to complete the high quality interval training with strength and endurance. A good base enables you to do perhaps several heats in one day and on successive days at a meet. And it prevents injury.

Arthur Lydiard, the famous New Zealand coach of Peter Snell and other Olympic champions, proved that an extensive base training phase, followed by hill training and then sharpening, produces world-shattering results produces world-shattering results. Principle of Gradual Adaptation and Progression

I have noticed, even a week later, the same workout is easier, but generally you race according to your condition and training in the previous six weeks. Some say it takes even 12 weeks for the full training effect. Therefore, a long lead time is required if you are to race well. Also, world class athletes normally peak after the third important

It is surprising how the body adapts. Speed and speed endurance are normally lost in the base building period. Over the sharpening period, the workouts become gradually harder but, due to increased condition, the effort remains about the same as you become stronger and faster.

There should be no sudden increase in effort between workouts. Progress is rapid in the beginning; the final 3% improvement takes about 40% more work, but it's worth it.

Principle of Sharpening and Taper

Sharpening. The sharpening period prepares the athlete to peak in performance in the competitive season. During this period, aerobic endurance runs form the backbone of the schedule. But there is great emphasis on runs at race pace or faster, hill work, time trials, fartlek, and particularly interval training to increase speed endurance.

training to increase speed endurance. Rule of 12 weeks. There is considerable evidence that 12 weeks of sharpening is optimum to reach a peak. If the intensive training is continued after this, performance starts to drop off. It is best to arrange hard training for close to 12-week cycles: reach a peak, active rest for about ten days, then start another cycle by initially building a base.

Tapering. About 10 to 20 days before a race, one or two workouts can be more intense than normal. After this, with reduced volume, but retaining intensity, the body recharges. A meet one week before a big meet or a time trial can be quite beneficial with the workouts in the following week light volume but retaining speed. Three days before should not be overdone – two days before even less.

Remember, sore muscles often come two days after a hard workout. Also, no water running of any intensity within three or four days of a meet. For the marathon, Bill Rodgers recommends a quality workout (e.g., a 10-miler) 7 to 14 days before, with the last week very light.

Principle of Going with Your Strengths

Once you have decided on your speciality race, your training should be directed toward your strong suit. Know your strengths and weaknesses.

Working mainly on your strength (endurance or speed) will produce better results than concentrating on your weakness. For example, there are 800m runners who have moved up from the 400m. And there are 800m runners who have moved down from the 1500m. The former should concentrate more on shorter, faster repeats, while the latter should concentrate more on longer, slower repeats.

Hence, the athlete responds better to the work demands. This is not to say the weakness should be neglected; it requires work but not as much concentration.

Principle of Balanced Training

An optimal balance between the aerobic and anaerobic capacities, without underdoing or overdoing intensity and volume, is the main target in a training program. An imbalance in an athlete can be determined from actual races or time trials.

For middle and distance runners in the sharpening phase, Jack Daniels (renowned coach) states: 8% of the weekly mileage should be for VO₂ max training plus anaerobic threshold training. The former at about 5K race pace (intervals) and the latter at 10K race pace for a mile plus 15 seconds (intervals or continuous run). He also recommends 5% of weekly mileage training in the anaerobic lactic system (e.g., 30 seconds to 2 minute intervals) at >95% maximum heart rate.

Principle of Correct Mix in the Training Session

Aerobic and anaerobic training generally should not be mixed in the main part of the session. It is not desirable to work on both stamina and speed the same day, or the same workout, because one detracts from the other. It would be more beneficial to work on speed, flexibility and strength together.

Anaerobic speedwork before longer aerobic running saps the energy, resulting in slow or shortened performance in the longer running. Aerobic intervals, or a long run before attempting short fast intervals, results in much reduced speed. Also avoid a long run the day before speed work.

Principle of Specificity

When your strengths and weaknesses are known, a running event should be chosen to match your strengths. Specific "race like overload" training allows your body to adapt to the specific race stress you will encounter on race day.

Train for the course terrain, weather conditions and time of day you will run. Also, lifting of weights should be specific to your race distance: endurance reps for middle distance or greater, strength power reps for sprinters.

Cross-training should be as specific as possible to use the same muscles and achieve near the same heart rate or perceived effort; e.g., cross-country skiing and running in water closely simulate running.

Principle of Periodization

Periodization is the division of the training year (macrocycle) to meet the athlete's objectives and to peak during the competitive period(s).

Basically, periodization is based on periods up to three months (mesocycles) of hard training followed by tapering, peaking in performance for a brief period, then a transition rest period to permit another cycle to repeat.

GEORGE BANKER Jim Hage, 40, Lanham, Md., third master (31:38), Sallie Mae 10K, Washington, D.C., April 26.

Generally, over a month's period, each week (microcycle) has progressively higher intensity over the first three weeks in the month, with a decrease in intensity in the fourth week.

Each successive monthly cycle is harder. This highly recommended approach is similar to hard days followed by easy days, but on a coarser time scale.

Principle of Supercompensation

Supercompensation is an improved performance phenomenon. Following exercise, the body is fatigued. After rest, the body recovers, and, shortly after, rebounds to a higher level of performance than initially if training or the exercise starts again at the optimum time. But if started too late (e.g., start of a race too long after a warmup) there is a decline in performance. Supercompensation is also very much related to tapering and periodization.

Principle of Intuition and Flexibility

Listen to your body. It is important to have a long-term training goal and related short-term goals, but let intuition play its part on a day-to-day basis. Intuition works best when one has good knowledge of training principles. Avoid the "do it, regardless" philosophy, which can lead to injury and staleness.

There is a need for flexibility in the training schedule. Some days, when you will feel like doing less, the weather is bad, or muscles are sore, train accordingly. However, take advantage of those rare days when you feel like doing more than planned, but not too close to a race.

In short, when the body speaks, listen to it, and disregard your schedule - your subconscious mind has many years of wise experience.

Formatting of Results for National Master News

Most of the track & field and race results sent to the National Masters News comes by regular mail, but, increasingly, results are being sent to us via e-mail. In both cases, some results are camera ready for printing, but most require re-typing prior to layout. Formatting results is costly and time-consuming, and it is a double waste of effort when submitted results, which have been formatted, fall short of our requirements and must be

One advantage to submitting track and field results that meet our format requirements is that they will receive preference for publication in their entirety. Results that require re-formatting may be condensed to save on cost and time, or not be printed at all.

Listed below are guidelines to follow when submitting results:

- 1. Columns should consist of 28 spaces and be no wider than 21/4 inches. For a specific font and size, Helvetica 12 fits well.
- 2. Each event should start with the youngest men's age group and proceed to the oldest, followed by the youngest
- women's group going on to the oldest.

 3. Use "W" (W40) for women, not for the age groups.
- 4. Bold the event and use a small "m" for meters: 1500m
- 5. Put the age group on the same line with the first contestant in it, not above the name:

100m

12:22 M40 Harry Nelson

Steven Ward, 42, Reston, Va., finished the Cherry Blossom 10 Mile, Washington, D.C., April 5, in 56:37.

6. Use first names first, so that they can be abbreviated or initials used (no period after initial) when they are long and may create problems with right margin alignment.

7. Remove open and youth athletes. 8. Eliminate non-standard track event results, such as the softball throw and standing long jump, and identify the event or implement if not standard for a particular age group. For instance, if the M40-44 are running the 300mH instead of the 400mH, the event should be titled "300mH," not "Low Hurdles" or "Long Hurdles." When M55-59 throw the 25-

lb. weight instead of the specified 35lb. the event should be "25-lb. Weight," not "Weight Throw." 9. Do not mix meter marks and feetinches in the field events, especially in the same event. 10. If the throws marks are in feetinches, eliminate inch fractions (1/4, 1/2, 3/4) from the long throws results (discus, hammer, javelin). To conserve linear space, if your keyboard doesn't include fractions for the jumps and short throws (shot, weights), use .25, .50, and .75, and use this format for all events measured in feet-inches: 5-6, not 5'6" and 36-4, not 36'4'

11. The order of events: 100, 200, 400, 800, 1500, mile, 3000, 5000, 10,000, short hurdles, long hurdles, steeplechase, relays, HJ, PV, LJ, TJ, SP, DT, HT, JT, WT, SW, pentathlon, decathlon, heptathlon, weight pentathlon, walks, and road races (if part of the meet schedule).

12. Road race and racewalking results should include the ages of masters runners when they are listed with the open finishers but not in their age groups. Races that list top masters finishers separately, but not by age group, should also give ages, as should races that have "Grandmaster," or like categories.

13. Results of races in which the top category is 50+ or 60+ or 70+ should indicate the single ages of the finishers in those groups. -- Jerry Wojcik

The National Masters News is devoted exclusively to track & field, long distance running, and racewalking for men and women over age 30. Each month it delivers 32 to 48 pages of results, schedules, entry forms, age records, rankings, photos, articles, training tips, and all the inside scoops and information that affect the world of masters athletics competition. Some masters events are sponsored by USATF, the national governing body for athletics in the USA. Some are sponsored by individuals, clubs or other senior organizations. Generally, anyone age 30 or over may come to a masters event and participate. Some events are limited to age 40 +, 50 + or 55 + (please check the schedule for details). Some events require advance registration. Some require a current USATF card ($12 to $15 per year, depending on the region). There are no qualifying standards for most masters athletics events.

WAVA Preparations On Track for 1999

n my column in the May issue of NMN I promised to comment a little more on the discussions and decisions at the WAVA Council meeting in Gateshead on April 2-5 and will do so here plus other information on current WAVA

XIII WAVA Championships

Our meeting in Gateshead was highly concentrated on the World Championships, July 29 - August 8, 1999. As most of you know, we are preparing for an anticipated 8000-10,000 participants. One consequence of this expected high attendance is that we will use three stadia for the Championships:

- · Gateshead International Stadium (main arena)
- Monkton Stadium
- Riverside Stadium

Preparations are going well and we have now appointed our Technical Delegates who will follow progress very carefully and be on site well before the Championships start to ensure WAVA standards are met. This is one of our most important tasks.

Transportation between the three stadia will be offered by the organizers. We have to allow for about 15 minutes shuttle bus transfer between the stadia with normal traffic level, and perhaps up to 25 minutes during rush

The organizers are working on the entry booklet which will be ready for distribution to the WAVA affiliates in September. The daily program is more or less the same as in Durban, but if the entries are high in the sprint events we will have a plan to handle the first rounds within the 11 days. Our Stadia Committee is charged with presenting alternatives in Gateshead for future World Championships anticipating still higher numbers of participants.

World Masters Games

These Games are fast approaching, and I look forward to discussions in Eugene with the Council of the International Masters Games Association (IMGA) to evaluate opportunity for closer cooperation in the future. Our Past President, Cesare Beccalli, will have such discussions on a level of possible Veterans Olympics, on condition that WAVA be entirely responsible for the athletics in such Olympics.

I have said before, and reiterate here to avoid any misunderstanding, that the WAVA Council will make no decisions until we have discussed at a WAVA General Assembly what approach we should take.

In this context, I cannot help but mention other ideas, among which are the European Masters Games and something called the Eurathlon. This shows the high level of interest in veterans' activities, presenting another important task for the WAVA Council in ensuring a Championships schedule that is well adjusted to our

World Indoor Championships

In 1997, the first European Veterans Indoor Championships were held in Birmingham. This event was a great success with roughly 1400 participants, including some from countries outside Europe. If the EVAA General Assembly in September decides to have the Indoor Championships added to the European program, the next Championships will be staged in Malmo, Sweden, in March 1999.

As a follow-up to these discussions, proposal was forwarded to the WAVA Council re Veterans Indoor Championships also on a world level. Although this was addressed by the Council in April, the general feeling was that it is too early to discuss World Indoors because such Championships, staged in FebruaryMarch, will mostly be an affair for Europe and North America.

WAVA on the Internet

We have long felt that WAVA should have a home page on the Internet to reach many more athletes and other interested individuals around the world. We have taken steps to create such a home-page through which I hope we can present a lot of information on WAVA, our World Championships and other activities.

WAVA Handbook

Our new Handbook (1997-1999) is ready for printing with information on WAVA and should be distributed short-

Results from Durban

This affair has, hopefully, come to an end as you read this. There have been many difficulties and problems, but the last promise from the OC in Durban was that the books and videos would be distributed at the beginning of June to all who paid through their entry forms. However, some paid in Durban and those who did so must contact either the OC in Durban or his/her NGB and, on proof of payment, the OC will send the result book.

We do really apologize for this delay that has been a nightmare to all involved.

Regional Cooperation

Over the last 8-10 years, WAVA has had a very cooperative relationship with the IAAF and the Council feels it to be very important to have similar cooperation at the regional level also. For this reason, the Council would like the WAVA associations to contact the IAAF associations to organize a meeting to start discussions. Conditions vary, of course, between our six regions, but there is much to gain through improved cooperation.

Girvan Wins Two of Three British Championships

by MARTIN DUFF

Three British championship events took place within eight days of each other in May. Mike Girvan won two of them - the 10 miles in 51:31 at Leyland in Lancashire on the 10th, followed a week later, on the 17th, by a winning 2:30:46 in the marathon, which took place in the far North of Scotland at Fort William. The third event, also held on May 17, was the prestigious road relay championships, where double world 10K champion Nigel Gates finally led his Brighton club to the eight-stage M40 title that had eluded them for so long.

Elsewhere in the 10-mile race. there were good timings for M50 champion Ian Barnes, 55:37, and M55 winner Fred Gibbs, 58:41. Steve James set his second M60 best with a 57:04 that was 39 seconds better than Bill Stoddart's mark.

Among the women, Cecilia Greasley won the women's race in 1:00:26. Pam Jones set a good mark in the W60s with 1:14:03.

Dave Fairweather took M50 gold in the marathon in 2:43:37, just 19 seconds clear of Rob Young. Claire Pauzers, W35, who dropped out of the London Marathon with the aftereffects of a cold, made amends with her first British Vets title, winning in

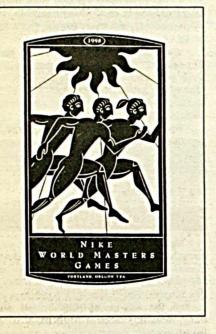

In the relay, over 6K individual laps, there was the usual excitement. Gates, just a day before his 45th birthday, anchored his side to a narrow victory in 18:39. This was just headed for best performance by 45-year-old Martin Rees, who ran 18:36.

In the six-stage M50 race, Oxford City, with four of the six who won the main race over the same Aldershot course in 1990, came out on top.

The women ran just three 6K stages, and Shaftesbury Barnet won that race narrowly over Derby Ladies. The fastest runner was Welsh lass Frances Gill on the first lap with 21:06. Epsom won the W45 event with a good solid team performance. Jane Davies held the lead for them in 23:31 on the final stage, as former London Marathon placer Ann Ford chased her home with the day's best W45 effort of 22:45.

15,000 Expected for Nike World Masters Games August 10-22

The deadline for athletes to sign up for the Nike World Masters Games, which begin August 9 in Portland and Eugene, Oregon, has been extended indefinitely after the games came up short of their goal of 25,000 registered athletes by May 31.

Barbara Kousky, who will co-direct the track and field portion of the event in Eugene from August 10-22, estimates the total participation for the games will be about 15,000. The track and field competition is expected to draw about 1300 athletes, down from the original estimate of 4000. The $200 entry fee has discouraged many potential participants from signing up.

The Oregon games will mark the first time the Denmark-based international event – featuring athletes over the age of 30 competing in 25 different sports – will be held in the USA. Canada (1985), Denmark (1989) and Australia (1994) hosted the three previous games. Attendance in Brisbane, Australia, was reportedly 24,000.

Doug Single, the event's CEO, said track & field and swimming have so far fallen short of projections, but several sports, such as bowling and cycling, are over-subscribed. Single said he expects the games to break even or make a small profit for the Portland Oregon Sports Authority.

Athletes from more than 65 countries will participate in the two-week extravaganza. Social events in Eugene include an opening ceremony, a BrewFest and athletes' barbecue, all hosted by the city of Eugene.

Several free clinics will be conducted by former Olympians. There is a chance that Mary Slaney and Joan Benoit Samuelson will participate.

Benoit Samuelson will participate.

Kobe Stages a Well Run Race

by RON BELL

WAVA Vice President, Non-Stadia
Unable to attend the 4th Non-Stadia
Championships, I asked Josep
Antentas to represent me in Kobe.
Josep is no stranger to responsibility as he was the organizer of the Olympic marathon in Barcelona. Along with WAVA walks coordinator Barbara
Dunsford and WAVA President Torsten
Carlius, I knew we had a strong team monitoring the championships. What follows is a report comprised of the comments from Josep and Barbara plus other comments from people who have contacted me.

The overall impression was that of gratitude to the Japanese masters for staging such an event in their normal efficient way, and also that WAVA is now progressing in the standards it is setting for these championships. To successfully stage an event with over 17,000 competitors has to be a credit to all concerned.

Entries were as follows: 10,876 in the 10K, 6246 in the half-marathon; 121 ran both events, 254 took part in the walks. Of the total number of 17,255 entries – of which 11,726 were men, 5529 women – 167 were received from outside Japan.

The biggest criticisms I have received are that the accommodations were too far removed from the venues and the numbers were not allocated the day before competition. This meant a very early start for a lot of competitors (6 a.m. for the half-marathon runners).

All runners had to collect their race number and championship chip two and a half hours before their event but, despite mass numbers, everyone reached the start line on time. The organizers had allowed 40 seconds per athlete for this function! Warm-up clothing was left in the tunnel, no identification tags were given, and there were only large letters on the tunnel wall for identification (A, B, C, D, etc.).

The course, which has been well documented on previous occasions, was not flat, but excellent running weather made a memorable and remarkable day for all competitors.

Most impressive, was that, within 100m of finishing, competitors received a certificate which contained their name, race number, position, age group and time.

One aspect highlighted by Josep, which I report for future events, is that WAVA should not approve courses at which spectators are not allowed, as was true with this course.

The walks went off trouble-free, thanks to Barbara sorting them out for us. The course was well marshalled, as were the refreshment stations. In fairness to the organizers, all our previous requests had been met. The only technical point not fulfilled by the organizers, was the provision of a fourth international judge. This meant that any walker who was disqualified, knew which three judges had disqualified them, something we are fighting hard to avoid. There were 14 disqualifications in the men's event and one in the women's.

I would like to draw attention to one small point raised by Barbara, which managed to escape the notice of the Chief Judge, and ask all walk judges to be vigilant in the area of dress code for walkers. Walkers must have their knees uncovered while competing. All judges must ensure that all walkers are aware of this prior to the start of competition and not allow clothing to cover the knee.

· Washington, DC, will play host to Road Race Management's Race Directors' Meeting and Trade Show, Oct. 22-25, Marriott at Metro Center. Two hundred race directors, race officials, corporate sponsors, advertising and PR executives, and others interested in road running are expected to attend. Sessions will include everything from an in-depth look at the LaSalle Banks Chicago Marathon and Marine Corps Marathon to a debate between Jeff Galloway and Jim Hage on the impact of walkers, walk/running, and the "slowing down" of competitive events. Craig Masback, USATF Chief Executive Officer, will be the keynote speaker. RRM Race Directors' Meeting, 2300 Ninth Street South, Suite 300B, Arlington, VA 22204; 703-685-7181.

MID-AMERICA

• Charlie Gray, 44, 72:50, and Marla Rhoden, 42, 90:25, took masters titles in the longer race of the Trinity Hospital Hill Half-Marathon & 12K, Kansas City, MO, May 31. Division winning standouts were Gerald Glass, M60, 90:41, and Karen Bestul, W55, 1:40:00. Masters firsts in the 12K were Charles Brandon, M40, 41:30, and Vera Burton, W50, 57:14. Top performers included Rick Hogan, M50 champion in 45:47, Paul Heitzman, M65 winner in 50:47, and Stacy Brown, first W70 in 61:10.

 Dave Johnson, M40, 67:15, and Marla Rhoden, 42, 80:54, sailed to masters firsts worth $400 each in the Dam To Dam 20K, Des Moines, IA, June 6. Keith Fevold, M40, 67:39, and Jackie Groves, W40, 84:26, collected second-place $200 money.

 Boulder residents Charley Perez, 9:38.12, and Ileane Nuiry, 13:02.67, collected masters wins in the first annual Boulder Planet 3000m Track Test, Boulder, CO, May 17. Many competitors used the 3000 as a tune-up for the popular Bolder Boulder race.

SOUTHWEST

Mary Preisel, Signal Mountain, TN, overcame high humidity to set a women's grandmasters course record of 39:42 at the Mississippi Gum Tree 10K, Tupelo, MS, May 9. Jon Sinclair, Fort Collins, CO, 30:53, took the masters win and placed ninth overall, while Patty Valadka, Houston, TX, 35:25, snatched the top women's masters spot and sixth overall. Kent Oglesby, Fort Collins, CO, 36:37, claimed the men's grandmasters win. Jerry McGath, M60, 37:15, and Susie Kluttz, W60, 46:09, both won their age groups in fast times.

WEST

Joe Keshmiri, Reno, NV, recorded a pending M60-64 WR of 59.52/195-3 for the 1kg discus in an open throwers meet at Hartnell College, Salinas, CA, May 19. The present record is 57.60/189-0 by Wendell Palmer of the U.S. in 1992.

 Larry Stuart, who registered a pending M60 WR for the javelin with a 213-10 at the So. Calif. Striders Meet, May 9, did it again in the Dan Aldrich Memorial Meet, UC-Irvine, May 23, with a 212-4. The present record is 191-10 by Del Pickarts in 1987. The Dan Aldrich Meet drew 160 participants.

 Heading the masters fields at the 5th Annual Alongi 5K Racewalk, College of Marin, Kentfield, CA, May 24, were Joseph Berendt, 27:36, and Virginia Fong, 33:14.

 Jon Sinclair, M40, 38:52, and hometown favorite Kim Jones, W40, 42:17, notched masters wins at the Lilac Bloomsday 12K, Spokane, WA, May 3. Other speedy finishers included Stephen Lester, M55 winner, 41:24; Sylvia Quinn, W60 champion, 55:38; and W65 winner June Machala, 58:12.

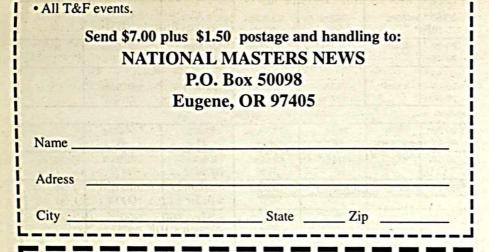

• AI Clark, 84, celebrated the 20th Annual Whiskey Row Marathon, Prescott, AZ, May 2, by running the race for the 20th straight year. "I'm just in the habit of it, I guess," he said. "I don't feel right if I miss one." Despite a diagnosis of prostate cancer five years ago, which has been in remission the past six months, Clark has kept his Whiskey Row streak intact.

CORRECTIONS

 Omitted from the Southern Calif. Striders Meet results sent to NMN: Karen Vaughn, W40, 87-0, javelin.

 The 200 time for Bob Matteson, M80, in the New Balance Indoor Meet, Feb. 27, reported in the May issue, should have been 39.09, not 59.09.

• The article on the Southern California Striders Meet, May 9, which appeared on p. 9, June NMN, was missing this sentence: Robert Culling, 66, lowered John Hepner's M65 U.S. record of 8:10.29 in 1997 for the 2000m steeple-chase to 8:09.98, an age-graded 91.6%.

The All American tables have been changed to reflect current marks set by athletes all over the nation. The changes were made by the All American Standards Committee; however, the old tables may be used for one year until people have adjusted to the newer version. This was not done to make it more difficult for the athlete, but to make it more equitable after analyzing all the data.
