AN EXHAUSTING DAY WITH GEORGE BRACELAND

I had a wonderful summer; busy all the time which is the way I like it. I have only two interests in life; one is printing and the other exercise.

I have my own business and employ about 400 people. We have plants in Philadelphia, Ohio, Virginia and have just started a new one in Atlan ta, Georgia. I work hard since I like my work and have always worked long hours. I do not tire from working and I do not tire from exercising since I am in excellent physical condition. I often tell people I wish I could give them some of my good health since I really have more than I need.

In printing with many tight deadlines there are many problems as you can believe. However, my nature is such that I am not bothered by pressure or tension. In fact, I often wonder what tension is since I do not believe I ever had it.

Now, back to the only other thing I know -

As you probably know, I do not believe running is the only thing which keeps you healthy. I probably do more Track and Field since that is where I can find the most competition (I really love to compete no matter what the sport). I have a 58' swimming pool in my back yard and probably would be a better swimmer than I am a runner if I had time to compete. I also have a large pit-type trampoline in my back yard and am fairly good at it. I also scull a good bit on the Schuylkill River. In addition, I am a member of two bicycle clubs. One races Tuesday night and the other races Thursday night and I race

ANNE - EXAMPLE FOR WOMEN

Anne McKenzie is one of the most remarkable athletes ever produced by South Africa

EDITOR'S NOTE: for the ladies, here are some efforts worh reporting. If any women are interested in forming a female U.S. Masters division with active competition, write Virginia King 1413 Bundy Los Angeles, California 90049 for details.

One day a year ago a medical doctor approached a 47-years-old woman at a track meeting in Western Province. "You know," he said, "I follow your athletics career with great interest and if my middle-aged patients NEW WOMEN'S MARATHON RECORDS would only follow your example, they'll have fewer health problems."

The doctor will remain nameless. The woman he spoke to was one of the marvels of the track world, Anne McKenzie Miki Gorman set a new record when she ran a 2:46:36 marathon at Culver City on December 2. She is 38 years old, is 5'l" and weighs less than 90 pounds dripping wet.

Ruth Anderson of Oakland has set a new record for women over forty. She did the Fiesta Bowl Marathon in Phoe-

Running in only his second marathon, the young English champion, Ian Thompson, was a brilliant winner of the gruelling 26-mile Games classic last evening. He clocked the second fastest time ever for the distance, 2h 9m 12s.

The veteran Jack Foster, of New Zealand, also English born, was a gallant second, bettering his personal best time by a minute to finish. to take the silver medal.

That was seven years ago and any woman of her age would have called it quits there and then. But not Anne. With encouragement from her husband, Ken, and from "men and women, young and old-even people who had nothing to do with athletics" Anne just kept on running (and throwing the javelin!) and after 1967 set up EIGHTEEN world age bests.

What is more, Anne, whose world 800 best for 41-year-olds is better than that of 33-year-olds, still wants to improve on her times.

The saying that a sportsman is like good wine and improves with age is used too lightly. If it really fits an athlete, it fits Anne McKenzie.

World age bests for men and women have become more important than ever over the last few years, because people are extending their track careers for longer periods. These "records" have to be set up in official competitions and witnessed by registered officials.

Among the men there is even a world best by a 78-years-old - for the marathon. Among the women there are many world bests held by women in their fifties, especially from the United States, Britain France, Russia and East and West Germany

Athletic meetings for veteran men (over 40 years) are so far advanced that national and even international championships are being held. It is hoped that, in the interest of national fitness, the trend will eventually extend to South Africa.

It was against this background of developing interest in world age-group performances that an unexpected setback forced Anne McKenzie to look for a new challenge.

Shortly before her 43rd birthday she underwent a serious cartilage operation. Afterwards she found that training at full speed or for long sessions was impossible.

Anne still held the national records for 880, 1 mile, 800 metres and 1500 metres, but her knee condition meant that she would never again be able to improve on those times (2:07.4-4:57.2-2:06.5-4:36).

Track was an integral part of her life, but now she had to consider retiring.

"It was during this period of indecision that I first learned that I was already the holder of various age records and that, by continuing to compete, I would possibly be able to establish more records."

Today, Anne McKenzie holds 29 world age bests, ranging from the 100 metres to the javelin. Among them are four times for the 80 metre hurdles, an event which has been superseded by the 100 metre hurdles.

Many of Anne's records are better than the times for younger age-groups. When she was 43 and 44 Anne did not compete over 1500 metres and East German women put up times of 5:44.6 and 5:48.6. When she was 46 Anne ran 4:50.2 and two years later she recorded 4:56.4.

Anne plans to keep on running for some time to come. "I know there are people who think that I should have stopped, but believe me, for each one who thinks that I should stop, I meet ten who enwho encourage me."

Anne has but one regret: "I have never run on a tartan track. All my races during the last four years were in a strong wind."

Yes, Anne McKenzie is really like a good wineand there is no reason to believe that the wine wil' not mature more and more and get better and better.

Anne's records may be found on page 3.

with them both. The average bicycle racer is about 18 or 20 years old and I find that they are all better than I. However, I expect that some day I will be better (I have always felt that happiness is not in being successful but it is in trying to be successful).

I generally compete in some sort of running competition every weekend. I consider myself to be basically a walker and do walk in open competition. My best distance is 50 miles and for four years in a row, I came in second in The Annual 50 Miler. Twice Shaul Ladany came over from Israel and killed me. The other two years, I was only 12 laps behind (the race consists of 200 laps on a 2 mile track). I am one of only five men in the United States who has done 50 miles in under nine hours. I do prefer age group running now and occasionally also go in a Road Runners Race.

My workouts are generally dedicated and I pour it on (what other way is there?). The rain and the snow don't bother me. I have a 9-mile loop course in Fairmount Park. Many times I purposely dress lightly in freezing weather to force myself to start faster and finish faster. If you don't start fast you freeze; ditto for the finish (it is often a pleasure on my course to get to that "point of no return", the halfway mark, at least you know you only have  $4\frac{1}{2}$  miles to go).

Which reminds me of the SO kilometer (31 mile) National Championship Walk held in Nutley, New Jersey in driving, freezing rain. The winner was to go to High Altitude Training for one week in preparation for the Olympics. At the halfway mark, I was the only one left. It was so cold even the Judges quit and I finished the race all by myself. They never did offer me the High Altitude Training —I never did embarass them by asking.

Some of my workouts go like this:

Bicycle to Fairmount Park, 10 miles, then run 9-mile course, then row 6 miles, then bicycle home for 10 miles.

Race 27 miles with the bicycle club, then add 20 more miles at the end to build up endurance.

Another, the Y.M.C.A., has a very rough calisthenics class for one hour. I finish that and then take the second class which starts right afterwards.

It is like the way I became a Sprinter. Two years ago, they asked me to participate in a 100 Yard Dash against Senator Cranston at the Penn Relays. I had never sprinted before and did not know how to train so I simply took my 9-mile course and sprinted for two telegraph poles and then walked two more telegraph poles; 9 miles of sprints. Bruta! Senator Cranston and I were both timed in the same time but I was in first place. This was one of my toughest and best ever races. After the race, I found out that Sprinters simply don't train this way — so, I can assure you that my methods have changed since that time.

In October, since I had just rurned sixty, I went up to Toronto for the Canadian Nationals and took eight first places and five second places. There wasn't too much competition but my times were good anyway. Another of my best ever races. Ask Norm Bright how I even sneaked up behind him in the  $\frac{1}{2}$  mile, also the quarter. He skunked me in the mile though.

After the Canadian Nationals, I made the mistake of trying to go to Australia in best ever condition. I entered a Marathon which I haven't run in four years and I finished under 4 hours which was my goal but I had to force myself to run the last 2 miles. I simply refused to let my legs stop turning over but in doing so developed a leg injury. In a 10 Miler one week later, it bothered me again but I refused to quit since I have a personal record of always having finished every race I have been in. It is nice to have these "fobias" but sometimes I wish I did not have them (like in the London to Brighton, where I really wanted to quit but couldn't).

At any rate, I went to Australia with a bad leg rather than in the good condition I could have been in had I taken it easy. I realized again I had broken Tom Osler's rule "better to go into a race untrained than overtained". I had a good night in Sydney in which I went in all races mile and under and all field events. I really don't have a record of what I did since when you go in as many events as I do it simply isn't possible to keep records. I also like a good warmdown afterwards and by that time most Officials have left.

I found the Melbourne meet a very difficult one. On Saturday as I crossed the finish line for the 110 meter hurdles, the gun sounded on the other side of the track indicating the 3000 meter walk had started. I ran over and started off 150 yards behind. I thought I was a good walker but found out the Australians were much better than I since I came in only fourth. The walk took a lot out of me since I really tried to win. Shortly after this as I finished the 100 meter dash, they announced the start of the 3000 meter steeplechase. Another back to back race. I found the steeplechase very tough since I had never run it before (after going through that water hole eight times, I also found out that you don't wear heavy wool sweat socks either). I finished up Saturday all right but Sunday was really rough. Near the end of the day as I finished my heat in the 200 meters the Pole Vaultstarted and I injured my leg again; the same one that I had trouble with in the Marathon. I won the Pole Vault but the next race was the final of the 200 meters and I pulled up lame at the halfway mark. This finished me for the day.

I now had only one week to get ready for the Hawaiian meet. This was a meet I had really been looking forward to since Russ Niblock, who has beaten me in every race we have been in, was leading our group. The future didn't look too bright. The next day, I went out but found out the most I could run was 50 feet. Sprinting was positively out, so what I did was run 50 feet at a time, taking plenty of time in between but never stopping. I put in hundreds upon hundreds of these 50 foot runs, alternating between running backwards, sideways and I also did a lot of calisthenics but always came back to the endurance type running. worked out for almost three hours and figured that even if one leg wasn't in shape at least the other leg and the rest of my body would be. I worked out every day for two or three hours doing nothing but endurance work. However, for three or four days I couldn't even jog 10D yards. I had no desire to sprint and refused to even try it.

On the day of the University of Hawaii meet, it rained hard for hours before the meet and throughout most of the meet. This gave me a feeling of confidence since I am so well used to adverse weather conditions. The first race was 400 meters, it was raining, the track was soaked and for some reason or other, everybody was trying to beat me. Dick Lacey ran his best ever 400 meters and I just about inched him out and won in 66 seconds which is close to my best time. To sum up, my leg did not bother me and never has since. one of my "best ever" days. Admittedly, Bud Deacon was resting up getting ready for a Decathlon and did not compete. So for those of you who want to know what will happen when Bud and I meet you will just have to wait until the New York Peddie School Meet or the Raleigh Meet. Stan Thompson was also running in the 50 & Over group which I wish he would not do since we need more competition in the 60 & Over.

My score for the morning's work was placing n all the events I was in:

in all the events I was in: 800m run..... Pole Vault..... 1st 2nd High Jump..... lst 5000m walk..... lst 3rd 4x100m relay..... 2nd Discus.... Shot Put..... 4th Javelin....... 2nd 110m high hurdles.. lst Long Jump..... 2nd 400m dash..... lst Triple Jump..... lst 10Dm dash.....

Actually, my toughest race was the 5000 meter walk. I really went all out trying to beat Bob Long who was in the 50 & Over group. He nosed me out again by a couple of seconds as he had done consistently on the trip, but happiness is in the trying, etc., etc.

Why do I go in so many events? It all star-why do I go in so many events? It all started in Philadelphia several years ago. We had too many events and not enough competitors so to make it look good for the others I went in all the events. Larry Simmons was usually our starter and he has the reputation of being the fastest starter in Philadelphia. His record is thirty races in one hour. In every meet I was in, he seemed to be trying to break his own record. In those days, many times I ran three and four races back to back. Today, it doesn't seem like much of a workout if I only go in one or two races.

My diet -- I hate to give this away since it is the secret of my success. Eat as much as you want and anything you want. I do eat an extraordinary amount of sweets like cake, candy and ice cream. I always have dessert after lunch and dinner and consider the meal incomplete without it. In fact, I prefer to cut down on the main part of the meal in order to make room for the dessert. After a good meal, I can really feel the blood flowing through my veins and I am ready to start again:

SPOTLIGHT - BILL ANDBERG

Have you ever run a mile on showshoes in 6 minutes, or run a 26.3 mile race in slightly over 3 hours, or held 8 world records at one time? Few of us can measure up to a fraction of those achievements...but one member of our community has all those accomplishments to his credit--Dr. William "Bill" Andberg.

You perhaps have heard other aliases for Dr. Bill such as, "Gray Ghost", "Bullet Bill", "Fly-ing Finn", or just "Running Nut". With Bill there is no half way activity and for those who go all out affectionate or eccentric nicknames usually follow. Anoka's "Gray Ghost" has put our community on the track map of the world.

Bill, as dean of U.S.A. marathoners, along with others such as 106 year old Larry Lewis of San Francisco, and the 70-year old gentlemen who climbed Devil's Tower in 1972 has removed the myth that life begins at 40 and ends at 60. The Twin City Track Club, largely composed of medical people, is demonstrating more that running can be a boon to good physical health in the upto-90 year old group.

Not all of Dr. Andberg's time is spent running. He still keeps many of the domestic animals of the area in good health and continually makes himself available for worthy community activities, such as:
1. Speaks to school classes, 4-H, and Scouting groups.

Paces the summer biology field trippers for fitness.

Organized the Anoka Halloween run and donates his trophies.

Chairman of the State Veterinarians Legislative Committee.

Helps biology classes with large animal dissections.

Continually motivates people of all ages to be active physically.

Operates as a scouting merit badge counselor for several subjects.

Not all the credit can go to Bill for his Accomplishments. Behind most successful achievers is an understanding and supportive spouse and family. Ruth, as Bill's kingpin supporter and companion is in my estimation the epitome of wifely understanding. Chris, Julie, Paul, and Wendy as the Andberg offspring are also equally enthusiastic about Bill's successes. Overall, few families have the diverse interests and "gut issue" feelings that the Andbergs possess. Between Ruth and Bill they belong to almost 30 organizations with each of those organizations funneling information into their home. From this source both of them freely pass on this information to others who might utilize it. The Andberg household might be better tabbed the Andberg Informational Center.

Tonight the spotlight is on Bill and Ruth. We hope everyone will enjoy this brief interaction session with the Andbergs. Both of these wonderful people are action oriented and probably they would both be happier to see everyone become more active physically and mentally in the areas of interest that each likes to pursue.

Anyone who starts training after a 34-year layoff and goes on to hold 8 world records must have a special type of self discipline. Wake Forrest Physical Fitness Laboratory asked Bill to spend time with them two years ago to find out how he and a few other great ones really tick. We know that Bill ticks well, that he is one of us, that he has something unique, that he has motivated many in our community to activate the physical processes of the body, and that the Andberg name will become a permanet fixture in the running history of this area and probably the entire world.

Thank you so much, Andbergs, for your great contributions to all of us.

OAKLAND INDOOR INVITATIONAL TRACK & FIELD CHAMPIONSHIPS OF THE PA-AAU Reported by Ed Phillips

There were two Masters events, the 50 meter dash and the 1500 meter run. The 50 was basically two races in one with Jim Lingel coming on in the last 20 meters to win in 6.3 over Dick Marlin's 6.4. The rest of the field finished in a blanket at 6.6 There seemed little doubt that Bill Presber won the third place award but the official placement of Boo Jordan, Mal Andrews and Van Parish in that order was somewhat disputed. Mal had quite a day before the night meet began. He challenged 8 younger competitors in the open Pentathlon- and was not last. A fellow named Jenner who was 10th in Munich in the Decathlon won , with Mal finishing 8th with 2291 points. The 1500 saw Dennis Tesguarden improve his finishing position by two places from the Examiner Games by coming in 2nd in 4:22.8 to Jim Shettler's 4:22.6. Peter Mindle was 3rd in 4:23.4 while Ken Napier was 4th in 4:30.3. The remaining order was Walt Betschardt-5th, Mike Healy-6th, Vance Koerner-7th, and Don Pickett-8th.

THE EXAMINER GAMES

Reported by Ed Phillips The 1974 Exeminer Games were quite exciting with many outstanding marks and competitive - races. The open class events have been well covered in the press, but if you were not there yourself(as many of our members were), you missed the results of "our" events. The Seniors Long Jump started at 6 PM with Mal Andrews winning with a very good 20' 7 3/4". Next came the seniors mile with Tom Stursk winning in 4:35.6. The 40-54 60 yard dash followed with the three top men being tied. Finally, the 55-up 60 yard dash was won by Payton Jordan. In both sprints the second place finishers had poor starts due apparently to having one jump each and therefore playing it quite safe the second time. Complete results are as follows:

l. Ma	l Andre	ng Jump ws (Bay A	rea ctri	iders) 20:	7 3/4
2. Bi	Ll Presi	er (Unat	tached)	19 1	3/4
3. Va	n P ari s	(Herbert	Hoover	Boys Club	)18: 14

The Starting Line—Both Sides Now

by Jon Hendershott

From a world-class, Olympic medalwinning sprinter 20 years ago to a starter today at some of the nation's biggest track carnivals, Thane Baker has known both sides of the starting line.

And Baker feels his career as a starter has definitely benefited from his many explosions off the starting stripe as one of the world's fastest men during the mid-50's.

"Having been a sprinter makes me aware how important a fair start really is for all competitors," says the 42-year-old oil company transportation supervisor from Dallas. "Having been in the blocks, I know what will affect a runner and what won't. It has been a great advantage for me as a starter to have been a competitor in those situations I now start."

During his competitive days, Baker was one of the world's best. He won the '52 Olympic 200 silver medal, '53 NCAA 220 as a Kansas State senior and the '56 AAU 200 in an American-record matching 20.6. He equaled the world 100-meter record of 10.2 in a '56 Olympic Trials heat and later collected a complete set of medals at Melbourne for a 100 second, 200 third and 400 relay victory. And, after a 16-year hiatus, Baker returned in '72, quickly establishing himself as one of the fleetest dashmen in seniors ranks.

As a starter, in assignments ranging from the Texas Relays and college championships to college and prep dual meets, Baker says, "I go all out to ensure each and every runner has a fair start but one that allows him to start 'his way.' He shouldn't have to put up with any idiosyncracies of mine which might disturb his concentration.

"For example, I give the commands of an imaginary race into a tape recorder and then replay the tape and 'start' myself out of the blocks. I try to hear myself as the athletes hear me. I also try to watch warmup starts, especially by sprinters and hurdlers, so I will have an idea what to expect."

Having made many entrances and exits from the starting blocks, Baker the starter knows each runner has his own little movements, rituals, gyrations and quirks which often help bring him to competitive readiness.

"I had a few gyrations of my own that seemed to prepare me mentally and, at least at the time, I thought physically," he recalls. "In starting I will ignore anything anyone does as long as it doesn't interfere with someone else."

But that doesn't mean a starter can cater to just a few athletes.

"A starter must always be aware of one primary thing," Baker believes. "That is he must see that everyone in a race gets a fair start in every respect. He can't give some an advantage; the right of all to a fair start must be honored.

THANE BAKER sprinter then, starter now

"On the other hand, the runner should realize the starter has up to eight other athletes he is trying to accommodate. The runner shouldn't have to put up with distractions from the starter, but he also must realize the starter can't prevent the movements and noises of other runners. The starter has to permit every runner to start in his way, as long as it's legal and doesn't interfere with others."

There are some starting incidents in which the starter's best efforts go for naught. "In one race I started," Baker says, "a runner fell after about 20 yards and I recalled the field. On the second start, the same runner fell again. Finally they got away on the third start—but the runner who fell quit after a lap. I guess it would be hard to last a lap after falling twice."

Just as he feels he has a responsibility to the athletes to start races as fairly as possible, Baker also feels he has a responsibility to his fellow starters.

"Towe it to them to make my starts as close to the rulebook's description as I can," he believes. "If I start too fast, runners may expect a fast gun in their next meet; and vice versa if I hold too long. I know it's impossible to have all starters the same, but we should strive for starts as close as possible to that described in the rulebook. That way, runners will know what to expect and can depend on good starters.

"I don't mean exactly the same time interval between 'set' and the gun, but within the allowable range [approximately two seconds in the NCAA rulebook, until all runners are motionless in the AAU guide]. As a sprinter then, and as a starter now, I feel sorry for runners who go from a 'fast' starter, to a 'good' starter to a 'slow' starter over several races. It messes up concentration, timing and an athlete's mind can't be on his race when he is wondering what the starter will do this week."

There are many good, conscientious starters, Baker feels, who do their very best to see all runners start fairly. "There are others who just go through the motions," he says, "which is unfair to the athletes, other officials and the spectators."

In fact, Baker the starter retains one small ritual from Baker the sprinter: "Before a race, I used to say a prayer to myself-'Lord, let everyone do their best, including me.' I still say that prayer before any meet I am starting."

LETTER from JACK PENNINGTON, Canberra, In re Pro/Am Question

Thanks for your reasoned reply, in your letter of Feb. 24th. I will publish it without any cuts in My Mag, No. 14; unless you say otherwise. When you get No. 13, you will see that I really agree with what you say, but not the way you say it. I admire Ron Clarke and want him and Elliot in our competition. I believe athletes of that calibre deserve an income from advertising (not from betting). I did say that Veteran athletes should be in the same category as Phys. Ed. and Orienteering. I did say rule 53 should be amended thru the Victorian and AAA as a matter of urgency, i.s., if they won't or can't, it will not get thru in Australia, because they have the rival professional association on their doorstep.

I spoke to Dr. Kavanagh, in Melbourne (at Conference of Sports Medicine). I gave him a copy of my letter to you and the results of the Melbourne meet. He said he will back you in committee (I have heard that other members of the Toronto group will not wish to exclude Australia or New Zealand because they are amateurs) so the entry conditions are not yet established as OPEN?

Regarding your own promotion of Veteran athletics, you will have noted that on two separate dates, I featured your efforts in my magazine. I have also said that I will be in Toronto come what may about the entry conditions, even if my future "comp" will only be in orienteering (I'm already involved).

A circular from the Sydney Veteran Club says they will organize a big party for Toronto; no mention yet of the Promam problem. But, today I have a letter from Arthur Hodson, Secretary AAU, saying "The Marquess of Exeter has replied to Pain, thus, the present IAAF rules apply to amateur athletes of all ages, all over the world" - dated february 25, 1974. As I have said, we have got to change

As I have said, we have got to change the rules or there will be a large contingent from amateur clubs missing from the World Games.

In Melbourne, the Minister for recreation in Victoria has sponsored a 15km Fun Run. He wants massive participation from the public. He has refused to debar "Presportsmen and women" (a mate of Ron Clarks). The Victorian AAA have said any athlete who figures in the result sheet will be declared a "Pro". They may start, but may not finish——don't explode——I hope some commie athlete organizes every amateur athlete (4,000) to ignore the AAA. Any subsequent mass expulsion from smateur athletics would be farcical and if attempted, would bring a government enquiry into the whole setup of national fitness promotion and finance.

Canberra, the capitol, will promote the Pacific Games, 1977, and a tartan track facility is under way here. The government has undertaken to provide such a track in every state capitol. There's the pressure point?

Foreign Correspondent:

Our correspondence brings us letters from behind the Iron Curtain. This is one received 3/21/74. It took 4 months to get here. Thank God you live in a free country--Watergate, and all.

"As you suppose I am really interested in long distance running for veterans and even I participated in the world-best competition over 25km in Karlove Vary, Czechosľovakie, 1971. There were some other runners from Poland too. Since this year we could not marticipate in the next competitions, because they took place in western countries. Maybe you are not exactly informed about the financial conditions here. It is rather impossible to come to America or another western country because of financial difficulties. The fare to this country must be paid in western money and we have no possibility to exchange it here. But maybe there are some veterans in Poland in so good an economic situation to follow your kind invitation. I will ask them.

"Of course I have heard about the National Veteran Championships in the United States and I am full of admiration for this matter, because here in Poland we have no competitions for veterans. I read some track and field periodicals, a.o., the "Condition" and so I know all about veterans sports all over the world.

"I hope that the I World Veterans Track and Field Championships will finish with a full success. If I can help you more in this matter please let me know."

However, it would seem so simple to declare that in the interests of world health, all sporting competition, where the minimum age is 40 years, is in the same category as orienteering, but this must come from the IAAF, otherwise, Veteran athletics must become divorced from amateur athletics, and that will never happen in Australia, because we are so much involved in the system, and most have been since childhood.

However, the case is being put to them by you and I. You stand squarely for open meets. I support you, providing no amateurs are debarred. Because of life-long loyalty to amateur athletics, once an amateur is ineligible to compete as an amateur, he is also ineli-gible to be a member of an amateur club. He may not be an office holder, nor may he be an official on the track. It is a double-barreled gun.

You may publish my letter as my personal assessment of this situation which concerns Australia, but not the USA.
